NOTE:

This guide does not replace in any way the outstanding value of the ISC2 CISSP CBK Seminar, nor the fact that you must have been directly involved in the security field or one of the 10 domains of expertise for at least 3 years if you intend to take the CISSP exam. This booklet simply intends to make your life easier and to provide you with a centralized and compiled list of resources for this particular domain of expertise. Instead of a list of headings, we will attempt to give you the headings along with the information to supplement the headings.

As with any security related topic, this is a living document that will and must evolve as other people read it and technology evolves. Please feel free to send comments and input to be added to this document. Any comments, typo correction, etc... are most welcome and can be sent directly to jasonr@ascendsolutions.com. Thanks.

Domain 3 – Security Management Practices

Description:

Security management entails the identification of an organization's information assets and the development, documentation, and implementation of policies, standards, procedures and guidelines which ensure confidentiality, integrity, and availability. Management tools such as data classification, risk assessment, and risk analysis are used to identify the threats, classify assets, and to rate their vulnerabilities so that effective security controls can be implemented.

❖ Security Management Concepts & Principles

Critical Information Infrastructures Maitland Hyslop,2007-09-05 Resilience is an increasingly important concept and quality in today s world It is particularly important in the area of Critical Infrastructures It is crucial in the area of Critical Information Infrastructure This is because since the year 2000 man has been dependent on information and telecommunications systems for survival particularly in the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development OECD countries and because all other Critical Inf structures depend upon to a greater or lesser extent Critical Information 1 2 Infrastructure Until probably the late 1980s it would be fair to say that the defense of individual nation states depended upon a mixture of political will and armed might The fall of the Berlin Wall may have effectively ended the Cold War and with it a bipolar world but it brought globalization and a multipolar digital world in its wake Simply put a number of power vacuums were created and these have yet to be fully filled and settled In this New World many changes were afoot These changes include the increasing irrelevance of nation states in federated structures and the export of democracy on the back of globalization One of the biggest changes though is the use of digital technology by the OECD countries This is on such a scale that these countries have become both dependent upon information technology and as individual 3 states largely irrelevant to the new global electronic economy 1 This adaptation of Maslow s hierarchy of needs is attributed to KPMG
