Summer Math Learning Packet

Students Entering Grade 4

This summer math activities will review your child's 3rd grade math understanding and reinforce skills taught this year. As a free summer math activity, "Thinking and Talking about Math" and help reinforce all the math that has already learned and begin to build the foundation for continuing to strengthen that will be investigated next year. The goal is for your child to have fun thinking and applying skills learned to situations in the real world. While your child is working, another family member can find and talk about similar situations.

The math practice in this summer packet will focus on critical areas in grade 3:

1. developing understanding of multiplication and division and strategies for multiplication and division within 100;
2. developing understanding of fractions, especially unit fractions (fractions with numerator 1);
3. developing understanding of the structure of rectangular arrays and of area;
4. classifying and analyzing two-dimensional shapes.

This packet contains all 11 calendar pages, and the June and July for 2016. These are probably intended for each day of the month, including weekends. Likewise, ARPA and students are also recommended to explore mathematics in different ways. This calendar year child to complete all the math activities. The hope your child will spend at least 30 minutes a day, 4 to 5 times a week practicing math. Create a goal with your child to keep numbers easy during the month over the summer. For example, my child will work on completing at least 200 minutes of math practice over the course of the summer and keep track of further learning in a math journal. A math journal makes a great idea either to print or digital format. Use the example of a "speed" journal entry:

If the activities suggested do not appear to "fit your child" or you have prior year math activities from previous years, you may like to this, please feel free to adapt this year with activities that better suit your child's abilities or learning style. Encourage positive thinking about math using flashcards, money, etc.

Students mathematics learning prior mathematics skills, apply what they know to solve problems in appropriate contexts. (3)
