the end of history nothing ever really ends Though characterized on one hand by sociopolitical and economic stasis stagnation and decline twenty first century American culture has also been marked by the constant ebb and flow of preexisting artifacts and styles so that when one fades out of fashion it is always replaced by another reiteration Change on the cultural level has accelerated at an unprecedented rate and old things are constantly returning anew The present in other words promotes the feeling that nothing is changing and simultaneously everything is In the midst of this paradoxical sense of constant flux and grinding stagnation underwritten by the notion that there is no alternative to the malaise of the present the nostalgic past emerges as the only viable refuge The Reflective Age investigates how nostalgic American media of the 2010s and early 2020s reflects and contributes to these conditions showing how the films TV shows music and literature of the period illustrate a radical shift in both the role that nostalgia plays in the American cultural and political landscape as well as in nostalgia itself
