Michigan Law Review, 2012 Data Communications, 1996-05 Builder, 2004 Building a Technology Inclusive Agency James H. Edwards, 2009 The development of low-cost and practical information and communication technologies (ICT) has led to increased pressure on social workers and other human service providers to insure their clients are not digitally disenfranchised. In fact, the National Association of Social Workers (NASW) and Association of Social Work Boards (ASWB) Standards for Technology and Social Work Practice require social work practitioners to insure their own access to technology as well as insuring access to technology on behalf of their clients. The first step in carrying out this mandate is to understand how, why, and for what purpose clients use ICT. Secondly, we must understand the role that human service agencies can play in insuring their clients are not digitally disenfranchised. To this end, the qualitative study presented here is comprised of two components: first, an exploratory study examining how women in recovery from chemical addiction view use and envision their use of technology and second an evaluative component examining an effort by their provider agency to promote digital empowerment through the use of computer access and training The findings suggest the participants were empowered through increased access to technology and increased computer skills The agency struggled to maintain an adequate technology infrastructure for the participants but found the intervention to be beneficial and consistent with its overall mission of empowerment In general the participants expressed an increased frequency of computer use outside of the training as well as increased confidence in their ability to use a computer The participants expressed feelings of joy excitement pride and an overall sense of empowerment as a result of the computer training experience This was evident by the perfect attendance at the trainings and confirmed in the statements by the executive director The dissertation citations contained here are published with the permission of ProQuest llc Further reproduction is prohibited without permission Copies of dissertations may be obtained by Telephone 800 1 800 521 0600 Web page <http://www.proquest.com/en-US/products/dissertations/individuals.shtml> Chicago, 2005 The Community Anchor Institutions of Champaign-Urbana, Illinois Kate Williams, Abdul Alkalimat, Abigail Sackmann, 2012 PC Magazine Guide to Home Networking Les Freed, 2004-02-06 Networking it s not just for the office any more Here s how to get all your electronic devices on the same team Ready to plunge into creating your own home network You couldn t ask for a better guide through the networking maze than PC Magazine contributing editor Les Freed From why you should network to whether you need a switch or a hub and how to hook in your Playstation reading this book is like having Les drop by and set the whole thing up for you And you don t even need to move those back issues of PC Magazine off the couch With expert advice you can t go wrong Check out all the advantages of a home network Get a crash course in networking technology Design the network that fits your needs and your budget Compare wired and wireless products Learn how to prepare your computers for networking Whip up a specialized recipe from the Home Networking Cookbook Protect your investment with troubleshooting tips Build a network using the existing wiring in your home Discover how to keep your private information private Make all your home entertainment devices part of the network Visit www.wiley.com/compbooks/pcmag Wireless Broadband Networks Handbook John R.
