CITYFLO 650 - Metro de Madrid

Solving the capacity challenge and reducing the whole life cycle cost with proven communication-based train control (CBTC) without interruption to services

As more and more passengers switch to rail to make their journeys into city centres, the world's metro systems have to cope with increased demand for rapid, efficient services. Many existing metro operations are rapidly reaching their maximum capacity, yet upgrades have to be carried out with minimal disruption to service.

Metro de Madrid is no exception. The metro system in Spain's capital city is the second longest in Europe, serving greater Madrid's population of approximately 6 million people. It is also one of the busiest, recording over 600 million passengers per year, with as many as 2.5 million passengers in a single day. With passenger numbers increasing by 5.2% per year and peaks as high as 9%, capacity has been reaching its maximum level.

To cope with this increased demand, in 2004, Metro de Madrid commissioned the re-signalling of Line 1 (23 km) and Line 6 (24 km), choosing the BOMBARDIER® CITYFLO® 650 moving block communication-based train control (CBTC) system to increase capacity through reduced headways.

This makes Metro de Madrid one of the busiest networks in Europe.

Increased passenger capacity.
The CBTC implementation doubled passenger capacity on Line 6 and increased speed with 5% to 42 km/h.
