Food Matters Salman Akhtar, Nina Savelle-Rocklin, 2023-09-14 With contributions from Prachi Akhavi, Salman Akhtar, Cuneyt Iscan, Surrey Iscan, Alan Michael Karbelynig, Kelsey Leon, Clara Mucci, Nina Savelle, Rocklin, Asmita Sharma, Julian Stern, and Thomas Wolman. Food matters begin even before birth with the absorption of nutrients in the womb and continue through baby feeds, family meals, school dinners, barbecues with friends and romantic meals to the growing dietary restrictions of old age. The role of food is not limited to its life-giving necessity but plays a huge role in communal bonding, cultural tradition, and self-expression. Food Matters investigates the significant role that food plays in all of our lives and is divided into three major sections: Mostly biological, Mostly psychological, and Mostly sociological. Mostly because biology, psychology, and sociology are not hermetically sealed subject areas and overlaps into other fields are to be expected. Part I, Mostly biological, consists of two chapters. The first pertains to food and health, the second to food and illness. At its core, Chapter One aims to undermine the notion of healthy choices and demonstrate a more nuanced vision of what actually builds healthy communities. The varied case material of Chapter Two shows the myriad roles food can play in relation to illness. Part II, Mostly psychological, has four chapters which respectively address the relationship between food and sexuality, aggression, narcissism, and morality, using wide-ranging theory and practical case examples. Part III, Mostly sociological, has three chapters. The first pertains to money, the second to immigration, and the third to movies, again packed with relevant theory and clinical vignettes, and in the case of the final chapter using the movies Waitress and Babette's Feast to show the central role food plays even in our fictional lives. This welcome smorgasbord of ideas from an international array of contributors representing the disciplines of psychiatry, psychology, psychoanalysis, anthropology, and gastroenterology, will be essential reading for professionals and academics in those fields and will shed fresh light on the subject for anyone with an interest in the multifaceted meanings of food matters.

The Mediocrity Paradox Conrad Riker, Are you tired of the constant pressure to excel in high school and beyond? Are you struggling with accepting that you're not exceptionally talented or gifted? If so, this book is for you. The Mediocrity Paradox is not just another book about high school and societal expectations. It's a wake-up call to those struggling with the harsh reality of not being the best. This book explores why mediocrity is often seen as negative and how society views it. How society defines success and the unrealistic standards set by media and social expectations. Examples of cognitive biases that lead people to believe they are better than they actually are. The phenomenon where winning can actually be detrimental especially in high school. Stress: Real Tactics Liam

Sharma, AI, 2025-01-26. Stress Real Tactics redefines stress management by arguing that lasting resilience requires more than quick fixes; it demands a whole life approach blending neuroscience, behavioral psychology, and systemic change. The book dismantles oversimplified advice diving into how chronic stress reshapes brain structure, dysregulates the HPA axis, and fuels inflammation. Instead of generic solutions, it offers layered strategies: cognitive reframing to alter thought patterns, habit stacking to build stress-resistant routines, and environmental tweaks like noise reduction in urban spaces. What sets this guide apart is its fusion of lab-tested methods (e.g., biofeedback training) with real-world case studies such as Sweden's six-hour workday trials showing how individual and societal changes intersect. Structured in three parts, the book progresses from explaining stress biology to teaching actionable tools and advocating for policy shifts. Readers learn to implement micro recoveries, 90-second breathing breaks, or redesign workspaces using sensory modulation principles. The introduction of the Adaptability Quotient helps assess resilience through biological, psychological, and environmental lenses. By critiquing the wellness industry's reliance on unproven remedies and emphasizing evidence-backed tactics, the book balances scientific rigor with relatable examples. Its interdisciplinary lens linking urban design to amygdala activity or workplace policies to cortisol levels makes it a standout resource for professionals and policymakers alike, offering not just survival tactics but a blueprint for sustained vitality.

Digital Objects, Digital Subjects David Chandler, Christian Fuchs, 2019-01-29. This volume explores activism research and critique in the age of digital subjects and objects and Big Data capitalism after a digital turn said to have radically transformed our political futures. Optimists assert that the digital promises new forms of community and ways of knowing and sensing innovation, participatory culture, networked activism, and distributed democracy. Pessimists argue that digital technologies have extended domination via new forms of control, networked authoritarianism, and exploitation, dehumanization, and the surveillance society. Leading international scholars present varied interdisciplinary assessments of such claims in theory and via dialogue and of the digital's impact on society and the potentials, pitfalls, limits, and ideologies of digital activism. They reflect on whether computational social science, digital humanities, and ubiquitous datafication lead to digital positivism that threatens critical research or lead to new horizons in theory and society.
