Nutrition and Prevention of Alzheimer's Disease Claudia Perez-Cruz, Sofia Diaz Cintra, 2015-12-18 Altered metabolism is known to be associated with a higher incidence of Alzheimer's disease AD Diabetes type 2 obesity and metabolic syndrome are considered risk factors for the development of dementias including AD These metabolic diseases may have a genetic predisposition but most of them are caused by environmental factors and life style Most research has focused on the effect of a high fat diet HFD and sweetened beverages that induce obesity Importantly a HFD can also trigger oxidative stress neuro inflammation and cognitive decline Less is known however about beneficial effects of diet on cognition such as slowing the progression or preventing AD by ingesting whole fruits vegetables fish and oil It is important to highlight the difference between vitamin mineral supplements and whole food as it appears that the former are clinically ineffective while multiple ingredients in the latter act synergistically to improve cognition As AD is a disease of slow progression therapies should start several decades before clinical symptoms can be observed one strategy can be the ingestion of healthy food in those subjects with one or more risk factors genetic environmental life style already in their 40s just when some brain metabolic disturbances start to develop This dietary therapy can overcome the increased reactive oxygen species protein deposition and synaptic failure characteristic of AD This research topic will cover a range of research articles case studies opinion and mini reviews all focused on describing the damaging effects of an industrial diet on cognition as well as on highlighting the beneficial effects of a healthy diet to prevent AD We believe that we still have time to fight against the negative impact of our industrialized cultures and adopt better eating habits increase exercise and slow down our life style to prevent increasing dementia in the aging population Also all these topics has been a product of intensives investigations with a great life hope and we hope you all enjoy reading this e book

Aware Food Choices: Bridging the Gap Between Consumer Knowledge About Nutritional Requirements and Nutritional Information Angela Tarabella,Barbara Burchi,2015-12-11 This Brief provides a snapshot of the continuing debate in the food industry on how to bridge the gap between consumer knowledge of nutrition principles and the nutrition information system currently in place for labelling Aware Food Choices Bridging the Gap Between Consumer Knowledge About Nutrition and Nutritional Information examines the available literature on consumer understanding of nutritional information and comments on the current poor knowledge shown by consumers about nutrition principles Another focus of this Brief is on the evolution of nutritional information in food labelling and current regulations on nutritional claims and product facts In reviewing attempts to improve the nutrition information system this work points out that consumers must first understand the data provided in order to utilize the system to make healthy food choices Therefore any campaigns aimed at improving the information system must concentrate on consumer data understanding of nutrition principles and components as opposed to a sole focus on labelling upgrades
