Digital People From Bionic Humans To Androids:

Digital People Sidney Perkowitz, Joseph Henry Press, 2005-10-31 Robots, androids and bionic people pervade popular culture from classics like Frankenstein and R U R to modern tales such as The Six Million Dollar Man, The Terminator and A I. Our fascination is obvious and the technology is quickly moving from books and films to real life. In a lab at MIT scientists and technicians have created an artificial being named COG. To watch COG interact with the environment to recognize that this machine has actual body language is to experience a hair raising gut level reaction. Because just as we connect to artificial people in fiction the merest hint of human like action or appearance invariably engages us. Digital People examines the ways in which technology is inexorably driving us to a new and different level of humanity. As scientists draw on nanotechnology, molecular biology, artificial intelligence and materials science they are learning how to create beings that move, think and look like people. Others are routinely using sophisticated surgical techniques to implant computer chips and drug dispensing devices into our bodies, designing fully functional man made body parts and linking human brains with computers to make people healthier, smarter and stronger. In short we are going beyond what was once only science fiction to create bionic people with fully integrated artificial components and it will not be long before we reach the ultimate goal of constructing a completely synthetic human like being. It seems quintessentially human to look beyond our natural limitations. Science has long been the lens through which we squint to discern our future. Although we are rightfully fearful about manipulating the boundaries between animate and inanimate, the benefits are too great to ignore. This thoughtful and provocative book shows us just where technology is taking us in directions both wonderful and terrible to ponder what it means to be human.

Cyber-Humans Woodrow Barfield, 2015-12-17 It is predicted that robots will surpass human intelligence within the next fifty years. The ever increasing speed of advances in technology and neuroscience coupled with the creation of super computers and enhanced body parts and artificial limbs is paving the way for a merger of both human and machine. Devices which were once worn on the body are now being implanted into the body and as a result a class of true cyborgs who are displaying a range of skills beyond those of normal humans are being created. There are cyborgs which can see colour by hearing sound, others have the ability to detect magnetic fields, some are equipped with telephoto lenses to aid their vision or implanted computers to monitor their heart and some use thought to communicate with a computer or to manipulate a robotic arm. This is not science fiction; these are developments that are really happening now and will continue to develop in the future. However, a range of legal and policy questions has arisen alongside this rise of artificial intelligence. Cyber Humans provides a deep and unique perspective on the technological future of humanity and describes how law and policy will be particularly relevant in creating a fair and equal society and protecting the liberties of different life forms which will emerge in the 21st century. Dr Woodrow Woody Barfield previously headed up the Sensory Engineering Laboratory holding the position of Industrial and Systems Engineering Professor at the University of Washington. His research revolves around the design and use of wearable computers and augmented reality systems and holds both JD and LLM degrees in intellectual property law and policy He has published over 350 articles and major presentations in the areas of computer science engineering and law He currently lives in Chapel Hill NC USA Posthumanism and Education: Transgression or Interdependence Ivan Nišavić ,Nevena Mitranović Marinković,Predrag Krstić,2024-08-20 This collection delves into the ongoing debates spanning decades on the intricate interplay between posthumanism the posthuman age and education Featuring authors from diverse backgrounds and theoretical perspectives the chapters explore a spectrum of themes from technophilia to technophobia transhumanism to humanism and Bildung tradition to new materialism illuminating key dimensions of education in what is heralded as a new and distinct era At the heart of these discussions is an exploration of whether this era truly marks a radical departure and how it influences educational practices The chapters offer arguments both supporting and challenging these ideas advocating for critical reflection and a fresh perspective on human experience and contemporary education The collection suggests a creative and considerate approach to children s learning and learning with children which would not only respond to the challenges of imposed circumstances but also suggest active work on the desirable construction of new ones Military Robots and Drones Paul J. Springer,2013-01-09 This book provides an insightful introduction to the most important field of military innovation for the 21st century robotic and drone weaponry For centuries warring nations have sought to lower the risk to highly vulnerable humans on the battlefield typically by providing protective armor making soldiers positions more difficult to detect or by striking from locations safe from retaliation Autonomous weaponry has now reached the point where robotic systems can perform some key tasks that previously required direct human involvement Military Robots and Drones A Reference Handbook introduces the lay person to a highly specialized topic providing the foundation necessary for further study in this field Appropriate for high school and college level students as well as general readers with an interest in the topic the author explains the many military applications of robotics as well as current limitations and disadvantages The book also provides a general history of robotic warfare examines key individuals agencies documents and models discusses controversies within the field of robotic and drone warfare such as ethical considerations and explains how increased reliance on robotics has affected the structure and strategy of the military

Issues in Science and Technology ,2004 Globalization and the Posthuman William S. Haney,2009

Globalization and the Posthuman argues that by globalizing posthumanism through biotechnology particularly through the invasive interface of humans and machines we may well interfere with and even undermine the innate quality of human psycho physiology and the experience of the internal observer the non socially constructed self or pure consciousness Furthermore many features of globalization in and of itself such as the fall of public man the exterritorialization of capital the loss of an impersonal public world to localized communities based on emotively shared interests combined with the posthuman expansion of biotechnology will diminish our natural capacity to experience the self as knower and lead to an increase in global crime sickness accident rates and overall lack of harmony The experience of the self comprises the unsayable secret of modern and postmodern literature and art a secret that may soon become inaccessible if the world continues down the road of globalized infomania The analysis of the consequences of globalization and the posthuman in this book is unique in that it will be the first to examine the interrelation between globalization posthumanism and pure consciousness Posthumanists define consciousness in a way that promotes the globalization of biotechnology without regard for its potential risks This book explores the implications of the globalization of the posthuman model of consciousness On the one hand cognitive scientists tend to equate consciousness with subjectivity which they associate with the thinking mind as an extension of the body nature and culture Eastern philosophy on the other hand distinguishes mind from consciousness with mind defined as the content of consciousness Bionic technology will have the effect of raising human metabolism and preventing the mind from settling down to the state of least excitation of consciousness This book suggests that while conscious content is an indispensable aspect of both the human and posthuman condition the thoughts memories feelings and perceptions of this content do not encompass a vital aspect of human nature attested to not only by the first person experience of many millions of people around the world but also by the records of both classical and modern contemplative traditions
