Srinilta, 2020-03-03 This volume constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 12th Asian Conference on Intelligent Information and Database Systems ACIIDS 2020 held in Phuket Thailand in March 2020. The total of 50 full papers accepted for publication in these proceedings were carefully reviewed and selected from 180 submissions. The papers are organized in the following topical sections: advanced big data, machine learning and data mining, industry applications of intelligent methods and systems, artificial intelligence, optimization and databases in practical applications, intelligent applications of internet of things, recommendation and user centric applications of intelligent systems.

Query Processing in Database Systems W.

Kim, D.S. Reiner, Don Batory, 2012-12-06 This book is an anthology of the results of research and development in database query processing during the past decade. The relational model of data provided tremendous impetus for research into query processing. Since a relational query does not specify access paths to the stored data, the database management system (DBMS) must provide an intelligent query processing subsystem which will evaluate a number of potentially efficient strategies for processing the query and select the one that optimizes a given performance measure. The degree of sophistication of this subsystem often called the optimizer critically affects the performance of the DBMS. Research into query processing thus started has taken off in several directions during the past decade. The emergence of research into distributed databases has enormously complicated the tasks of the optimizer. In a distributed environment the database may be partitioned into horizontal or vertical fragments of relations. Replicas of the fragments may be stored in different sites of a network and even migrate to other sites. The measure of performance of a query in a distributed system must include the communication cost between sites. To minimize communication costs for queries involving multiple relations across multiple sites, optimizers may also have to consider semi join techniques.

Parsaei, Thomas Ward, Waldemar Karwowski, 1990 Advanced automated manufacturing technology systems are perceived by many manufacturers to be the latest alternative to meet today's global market needs. Higher productivity, better quality and flexibility are just a few examples of the numerous benefits which can be achieved by implementing modern computer controlled manufacturing systems. Many firms perceive Computer Integrated Manufacturing

CIM as one of the most promising paths to achieve manufacturing excellence A CIM project can not be successfully implemented unless it is supported by long term strategic planning and economic analysis of the required capital investment decisions This book treats planning as the first step in the justification process Papers explore both strategic planning for computer integrated manufacturing CIM and more detailed issues such as part tool grouping and machine loading The critical issue of planning for communications between various levels of computation and devices on the floor is reviewed Capacity planning and planning for assembly and quality control are also covered The important role of champions in justification is explored Computers, Control & Information Theory ,1984 Journal of Object-oriented Programming ,1998 The Publishers' Trade List Annual ,1985 Government Reports Announcements & Index ,1991-10
