Faculty Development for Student Achievement Ronald J. Henry, 2006-04-15 This book describes a seven year project Quality in Undergraduate Education QUE that produced important changes in departments and in the teaching of individual faculty in 21 two and four year institutions across four states Rather than a blow by blow report of the project it focuses on the problems that led to the development of QUE concern about low levels of student learning in postsecondary institutions and demands by state legislatures that funds for postsecondary institutions be tied to assessment of student learning The story is told first from the organizational perspective in national and local campus meetings and then from the point of view of faculty in five chapters one for each discipline of biology chemistry English history and mathematics This description of QUE is intended as a model for administrators and faculty seeking to meet the challenges of increasingly diverse students as well as the increasingly divergent ways to earn a degree

Scaling-up Higher Order Thinking Anat Zohar, 2023-05-30 This open access book addresses the evasive problem of why truly effective educational innovation on a wide scale is so difficult to achieve and what leaders may do about this Examining the case of system wide reform processes centering on teaching a thinking rich curriculum it discusses general issues pertaining to implementing deep large scale changes in the core of learning and instruction The book emphasizes challenges related to professional development assessment achievement gaps and the tension between knowledge and skills in 21st century curricula It summarizes insights the author has gained from approximately 25 years of engaging with these topics both as an academic and as a practitioner who led a national change process With a Forward by David Perkins

Rethinking Rubrics in Writing Assessment Maja Wilson, 2006 The conventional wisdom in English education is that rubrics are the best and easiest tools for assessment But sometimes it s better to be unconventional In

Rethinking Rubrics in Writing Assessment Maja Wilson offers a new perspective on rubrics and argues for a better more responsive way to think about assessing writers progress Though you may sense a disconnect between student centered teaching and rubric based assessment you may still use rubrics for convenience or for want of better alternatives Rethinking Rubrics in Writing Assessment gives you the impetus to make a change demonstrating how rubrics can hurt kids and replace professional decision making with an inauthentic pigeonholing that stamps standardization onto a notably nonstandard process With an emphasis on thoughtful planning and teaching Wilson shows you how to reconsider writing assessment so that it aligns more closely with high quality instruction and avoids the potentially damaging effects of rubrics Stop listening to the conventional wisdom and turn instead to a compelling new voice to find out why rubrics are often replaceable Open Rethinking Rubrics in Writing Assessment and let Maja Wilson start you down the path to more sensitive authentic style of writing assessment
