Caribbean Women Writers Essays From The First International Conference:

Caribbean Women Writers Selwyn Reginald Cudjoe, 1990 In 1831 three years before England abolished slavery in the British Caribbean the narrative of Mary Prince was published in London It was the first account written by a Caribbean slave to be published Although narratives and stories of Caribbean women have appeared sporadically in subsequent years it is only since 1970 that a wave of women's writing has inundated the field thereby changing the horizons of Caribbean literature

Caribbean Women Writers Selwyn Reginald Cudjoe, 1990 Writers of Multicultural Fiction for Young Adults M. Daphne Kutzer, 1996-01-09 Multicultural fiction is an essential part of the American literary landscape This reference helps scholars teachers and librarians choose significant texts from both the past and present and provides guidance in approaching multicultural issues as they are discussed in fiction for young adults Included are entries for 51 writers some of whom have nearly been forgotten others who are just emerging Each entry provides biographical critical and bibliographical information while a general bibliography of works on multicultural literature concludes the book Authors included range from the nearly forgotten such as Laura Adams Armer to the newly discovered such as Graham Salisbury winner of the 1994 Scott O Dell Award for Historical Fiction The breadth of authors covered ensures an historical context for the issues raised by multiculturalism and the sections on the critical reception of each author address such important issues as the authority and authenticity of the writer to comment on a different culture Contributors are of many different ethnicities and include important scholars of children's literature lending authenticity and authority to the volume itself Diasporic Literature and Theory - Where Now? Mark Shackleton, 2009-03-26 The theoretical innovations of Edward Said Homi Bhabha Gayatri Spivak Stuart Hall Paul Gilroy James Clifford and others have in recent years vitalized postcolonial and diaspora studies challenging ways in which we understand culture and developing new ways of thinking beyond the confines of the nation state The articles in this volume look at recent developments in diasporic literature and theory alluding to the work of seminal diaspora theoreticians but also interrogating such thinkers in the light of recent cultural production including literature film and visual art as well as recent world events The articles are organized in pairs offering alternative perspectives on crucial aspects of diaspora theory today Celebration or Melancholy Gender Biases and the Canon of Diasporic Literature Diasporas of Violence and Terror Time Place and Diasporic Home and Border Crossings A number of the articles are illustrated by discussions of particular authors such as Caryl Phillips Salman Rushdie and Michael Ondaatje and the range of reference found in this volume covers writing from many parts of the world including contemporary Chicana visual art Asian diaspora writers and Black British Afro Caribbean Native North American and African writing Edwidge Danticat Martin Munro, 2010-10-12 Breath Eyes Memory 1994 the novel born from Edwidge Danticat's childhood in Haiti and immigration to New York City was one of the great literary debuts of recent times marking the emergence of an impressive talent in addition to opening up an entire culture to a broad general readership This gifted author went on to win the American Book Award in 1999 for her novel The Farming of Bones 1998 attracting further critical acclaim Offering an accessible guide for readers and critics alike this book is the first publication devoted entirely to Danticat's unique and remarkable work It is also distinctive in that it addresses all of her published writing up to The Dew Breaker 2004 including her writing for children her travel writing her short fiction and her novels The book contains an exclusive interview with Danticat in which she discusses her recent memoir Brother I'm Dying 2007 winner of the National Book Critics Circle Award It also includes an extensive bibliography With contributions from Danticat's fellow creative writers from both the Caribbean and the United States as well as leading scholars of Caribbean literature this collection of essays aims to enrich readers' understanding of the various geographical literary and cultural contexts of her work and to demonstrate how it both influences and is influenced by them Contributors Madison Smartt Bell Myriam J A Chancy Maryse Condé J Michael Dash Charles Forsdick Mary Gallagher R gene Michelle Jean Charles Carine Mardorossian Nad ve M nard Martin Munro Nick Nesbitt Mireille Rosello Renee H Shea velyne Trouillot Lyonel Trouillot Kiera Vaclavik

On the Very Edge Ian Kinane, 2025-01-15 On the Very Edge Bidentities in Michelle Cliff's Fiction uses the life and work of bisexual biracial and bicultural author Michelle Cliff 1946 2016 to develop an entirely new approach to intersectional cultural race and gender sexuality studies that prioritizes bi-ness as a methodological tool The book focuses not simply on bisexuality biracialism or biculturalism as isolated identity concepts rather it explores the very nature of these intersectional identity categories as configured by Cliff The text therefore represents a reclamation of bi-identity in Cliff's work as a much broader cultural and not just sexual or racial category arguing that Cliff's spaces and/or stages of bi-ness are in themselves significant in understanding contemporary global identity politics as well as in navigating complex and often damaging identity constructs Michelle Cliff partnered with poet Adrienne Rich and passing as white had an often invisible sexuality and cultural identity Yet her acclaimed work Abeng No Telephone to Heaven Bodies of Water If I Could Write This in Fire Free Enterprise and others demonstrates the intersections between bisexuality biracialism and biculturalism in often profound ways Drawing on original research interviews diaries editorials and other correspondences On the Very Edge will have far-reaching implications in the understanding of complex Caribbean identity politics and intersectional race gender and sexuality studies at large

Middle Passages and the Healing Place of History Elizabeth Brown-Guillory, 2006 Middle Passages and the Healing Place of History Migration and Identity in Black Women's Literature brings together a series of essays addressing black women's fragmented identities and quests for wholeness The individual essays concern culturally specific experiences of blacks in select African countries England the Caribbean the United States and Canada They examine identity struggles by establishing the Middle Passage as the first site of identity rupture and the subsequent break from cultural and historical moorings In most cases the authors themselves have migrated from their places of origin to new spaces that present challenges Their narratives replicate the displacement engendered by their own experiences of living with the complexities of diasporic existence Their female characters many of whom participate in multiple border crossings work to define themselves within a hostile environment In nearly every essay the female characters struggle against multiple yokes of oppression giving voice to what it means to be black female poor old and alone The subjects migrations and journeys are analyzed as attempts to heal the displacement both physical and psychological that results from dislocation and relocation from the homeland imagined variously as Africa This volume reveals that black women across the globe share a common ground fraught with struggles but the narratives bear out that these women are not easily divided and that they stand upon each other's shoulders dispensing healing balms Black women's history and herstory commingle the trauma that ensued when Africans were loaded onto ships in chains continues to haunt black women and men too wherever they find themselves in this present moment of the Diaspora

Archiving Creole Voices Marl'ene Edwin, 2024-12-20 Archiving Creole Voices Representations of Language and Culture begins with a re-reading of selected texts by female Caribbean writers specifically Joan Anim Addo Olive Senior and Merle Collins and proclaims that literary fiction can and does function as a creolised archive Marl'ene Edwin argues that historic marginalisation which has barred Caribbean scholars from entering formal archival spaces has created an alternative discourse Consequently Caribbean writers have chosen the imagined landscapes of literature a new archival space for the Caribbean within which to document and preserve Caribbean cultural traditions Fiction allows for the safeguarding of traditions so how then should Caribbean literature be read The combination of a physical and a virtual archive questions the literary and linguistic interface that such a mingling entails in a preservation of Caribbean culture Edwin argues for an appreciation of orality as performance as well as the reading of texts as creolised archive

The African-Jamaican Aesthetic Lisa Tomlinson, 2017-01-23 The African Jamaican Aesthetics Cultural Retention and Transformation Across Borders centres on the use of African Jamaican Aesthetics in Jamaica's literary traditions and its transformation and transmission in the diaspora

Journal of West Indian Literature, 2005

Winds of Change Adele S. Newson- Horst, 1998 Designed to continue the tradition of critical study and celebration of the literary products of Caribbean writers Winds of Change features eighteen new essays written by writers and scholars of Caribbean literature The volume was developed from the 1996 International Conference of Caribbean Women Writers and Scholars and includes original essays by Opal Palmer Adisa Maryse Condé Beryl A Gilroy Merle Hodge Patricia Powel Astrid H Roemer and Elaine Savory among others The writers speak to each other and to the audience on the ways in which Caribbean women writers influence their societies cultural political social economic through their literature The work also features a discussion of Afro Brazilian writers who situate themselves as Caribbean in sensibility and content

Close Kin and Distant Relatives Susana M. Morris, 2014-02-04 The black family in the United States and the Caribbean often holds contradictory and competing meanings in public discourse on the one hand it is a site of love strength and support on the other hand it is a site of pathology brokenness and dysfunction that has frequently called forth an emphasis on conventional respectability if stability and social approval are to be achieved Looking at the ways in which contemporary African American and black Caribbean women writers conceptualize the black family Susana Morris finds a discernible tradition that challenges the politics of respectability by arguing that it obfuscates the problematic nature of conventional understandings of family and has damaging effects as a survival strategy for blacks The author draws on African American studies black feminist theory cultural studies and women s studies to examine the work of Paule Marshall Jamaica Kincaid Edwidge Danticat and Sapphire showing how their novels engage the connection between respectability and ambivalence These writers advocate instead for a transgressive understanding of affinity and propose an ethic of community support and accountability that calls for mutual affection affirmation loyalty and respect At the core of these transgressive family systems Morris reveals is a connection to African diasporic cultural rites such as dance storytelling and music that help the fictional characters to establish familial connections
