Caring Democracy Markets Equality And Justice:

Caring Democracy Joan C. Tronto, 2013-04-12 A rethinking of American democracy that puts caring responsibilities at the center Americans now face a caring deficit there are simply too many demands on people's time for us to care adequately for our children elderly people and ourselves At the same time political involvement in the United States is at an all time low and although political life should help us to care better people see caring as unsupported by public life and deem the concerns of politics as remote from their lives Caring Democracy argues that we need to rethink American democracy as well as our fundamental values and commitments from a caring perspective What it means to be a citizen is to be someone who takes up the challenge how should we best allocate care responsibilities in society Joan Tronto argues that we need to look again at how gender race class and market forces misallocate caring responsibilities and think about freedom and equality from the standpoint of making caring more just The idea that production and economic life are the most important political and human concerns ignores the reality that caring for ourselves and others should be the highest value that shapes how we view the economy politics and institutions such as schools and the family Care is at the center of our human lives but Tronto argues it is currently too far removed from the concerns of politics Caring Democracy traces the reasons for this disconnection and argues for the need to make care not economics the central concern of democratic political life Who Cares? Joan C. Tronto, 2015-12-09 The 2015 winner of the Brown Democracy Medal Joan C Tronto argues in Who Cares that we need to rethink American democracy as well as our own fundamental values and commitments from a caring perspective Asserting that Americans are facing a caring deficit that there are simply too many demands on our time to care adequately for children elderly people and ourselves she asks us to reconsider how we allocate care responsibilities At the same time while democratic politics should help citizens to care better most people see caring as unsupported by public life and deem the concerns of politics as too remote from their lives to make a difference in this sphere Tronto traces the reasons for this disconnect and argues for the need to make care not economics the central concern of democratic political life

Constitutional Change and Popular Sovereignty Maria Cahill, Colm Ó Cinnéide, Seán Ó Conaill, Conor O'Mahony, 2021-07-15 This collection focuses on the particular nexus of popular sovereignty and constitutional change and the implications of the recent surge in populism for systems where constitutional change is directly decided upon by the people via referendum It examines different conceptions of sovereignty as expressed in constitutional theory and case law including an in depth exploration of the manner in which the concept of popular sovereignty finds expression both in constitutional provisions on referendums and in court decisions concerning referendum processes While comparative references are made to a number of jurisdictions the primary focus of the collection is on the experience in Ireland which has had a lengthy experience of referendums on constitutional change and of legal political and cultural practices that have emerged in association with these referendums At a time when populist pressures on constitutional change are to the fore in many countries this detailed examination of where the Irish experience sits in a comparative context has an important contribution to make to debates in law and political science Peaceful Approaches for a More Peaceful World, 2022-02-07 Events in recent times have led many to rightly question the compatibility such traditionally revered concepts as democracy liberal tolerance and capitalism have with the realization of social peace Clearly it can no longer be uncritically assumed that the values championed by earlier generations are conducive to reaching peaceful outcomes In Peaceful Approaches for a More Peaceful World a wide array of scholars explore the challenges presented in the current age to conventional understandings of what is required for peace and provide insights that are both practical and constructive to a world in urgent need of conceiving new ways forward Justice, Care, and Value Thomas Randall, 2023-07-21 In Justice Care and Value Thomas Randall argues for the radical potential of care ethics as a distinct and preferable theory of distributive justice Advancing the feminist literature this book defends a vision of society that can best enable caring relations to flourish Specifically Randall proposes a values driven theory of care ethics that derives normative criteria for evaluating the moral worth of caring relations and their surrounding institutions via a classification of the values of care They argue that such a theory gives us unique and meaningful solutions to contemporary questions of distributive justice across personal political global and intergenerational domains In doing so the book makes significant strides to engage care ethics with the broader moral and political philosophy literature Topical and interdisciplinary Randall demonstrates that care ethics has the conceptual resources to ground distributive theories of socialism territorial and natural resource rights obligations to future generations and historic redress The book will be of great interest to academics researchers and students of feminist philosophy but also of liberalism political economy and theories of global and intergenerational justice

Care and Support Rights After Neoliberalism Yvette Maker, 2022-04-28 This book offers principles for designing care and support policy to address two persistent sources of tension in the field The first is the tension between supporting women's unpaid caring and supporting their paid work participation The second is the tension between carers claims for support based on the burden of caring and disability rights claims for support for choice and independence for people with disabilities Policies tend to favor one activity and one constituency over the other Consequently individuals access to resources and choices about how they live are constrained Using a citizenship rights framework with insights from human rights law the principles provide guidance for designing policy and legislation that avoids either or approaches and addresses the interests of multiple constituencies Analyses of Australian and English policies demonstrate the value of the principles for developing policy that reduces inequality responds to failures of neoliberalism and expands choice for all Justice, Care, and the Welfare State Daniel Engster, 2015-10-01 Western welfare states are in a period of significant transition Changes in the nature of work and the family the growing elderly population and other developments over the past fifty years have rendered existing welfare policies largely out of step with economic and social conditions While welfare state reform clearly raises important questions about justice and social policy political philosophers have been slow to address it Justice Care and the Welfare State takes up the important task of developing a theory of justice to guide contemporary welfare state reform Applying normative political philosophy to public policy issues it addresses questions such as What role if any should states play in supporting families Should the state support national health care and if so why and in what form What does society owe to the elderly What role should welfare states play in supporting disabled people What obligations does the state have toward the poor As distinct from many works of political philosophy Justice Care and the Welfare State draws on empirical data about the populations and circumstances of existing Western societies and offers concrete policy advice for reforming welfare policies Noting that many of the challenges confronting people in post industrial societies involve issues of care Engster draws on a public ethics of care to develop his theory of welfare state justice outlining specific policy proposals in the areas of the family education health care old age pensions and long term care disability and poverty and unemployment The book offers important insights into how Western welfare states can be reformed in light of recent economic and social changes in order better to promote justice It should be of interest to political philosophers welfare state scholars public policy analysts and others interested in thinking about contemporary policy reform and justice Proceedings and Addresses of the American Philosophical Association American Philosophical Association, 2018-11 List of members in v 1
