Cibse Guide Section Environmental Design:

Environmental Design Ken Butcher, Bonnie Craig, 2015 Environmental Design ,1999 Environmental Design ,2006
Provides a premier source for designers of low energy sustainable buildings This work features contents that acknowledge and satisfy the Energy Performance of Buildings Directive and UK legislation specifically the 2006 Building Regulations Approved Documents L and F It includes supplementary information on CD ROM Integrated Sustainable Design of Buildings Paul Appleby, 2012-10-12 Integrated Sustainable Design of Buildings aims to provide a guide to members of design and masterplanning teams on how to deliver sustainable development and buildings cost effectively meeting current and emerging UK and international statutory and planning requirements Using a series of case histories and examples from the author's ten years of providing sustainability advisory services the book sets out a clear and understandable strategy that deals with all aspects of sustainable design and construction and the implications for delivery costs saleability and long term operation The extensive scope includes all aspects of environmental social and economic sustainability including strategies to reduce carbon emissions and the impact of climate change Integrated Sustainable Design of Buildings appeared in the Cambridge Top 40 Sustainability Books of 2010 Building Energy Management Systems Geoff Levermore, 2013-07-04
Energy management systems are used to monitor building temperature inside and outside buildings and control the boilers and coolers Energy efficiency is a major cost issue for commerce and industry and of growing importance on university syllabuses Fully revised and updated this text considers new developments in the control of low energy and HVAC systems and contains two new chapters Written for practising engineers essential for control engineers and energy managers in addition to being essential reading for under postgraduate courses in building services and environmental engineering Environmental Design Manual P. Petherbridge, N. O. Milbank, J. Harrington-Lynn, 1988 This manual presents a graphical method of assessing the effect of the window size and type the kind of construction and the rate of ventilation on summertime comfort conditions and daylighting in top lit offices with one external wall The method is for use early in the design procedure CIBSE Guide A ,1999 CIBSE guide A : environmental design CIBSE. (Chartered Institution of Building Services Engineers), 2015 Guidelines for Environmental Design in Schools Great Britain. Department for Education and Employment. Architects & Building Branch, 1997 This guide provides advice on meeting the standards prescribed in The Education School Premises Regulations 1996 It replaces Design Note 17 The guidelines are aimed at the designers of new school buildings but may also be used for the improvement of existing buildings Environmental Design ,2006 Designing for Pupils with Special Educational Needs Great Britain. Department for Education, 1992 The legal requirement that special needs students have access to a balanced and broadly based curriculum carries implications for accommodation in special schools This document offers advice and guidance on the provision of accommodation which takes account of the special educational needs of the pupils and also explains those factors relating to premises which are taken into consideration by the Secretary of State when approving the arrangements It is intended for those involved in preparation of the briefs and designs for new buildings and for reorganizing adapting and extending existing special and ordinary school buildings for pupils with special educational needs Chapters examine general as well as special requirements for schools catering to particular special needs groups as well as other accommodations such as medical facilities technicians rooms staff accommodation and parents facilities Also examined are general considerations involving school location environmental services communication and electrical systems and safety Finally area requirements are detailed for teaching spaces and teaching area tables based on those observed to meet curricular and other requirements in practice A glossary is provided Contains 20 references GR

Environmental Design Randall Thomas, 2006 Written and edited by a team of specialists at Max Fordham LLP one of the UK's leading environmental and building services engineering consultancies Environmental Design is the result of their extensive experience in designing environmentally friendly buildings The principles of their approach which they have taught in numerous schools of architecture and engineering are clearly presented here The book starts with some basic scientific principles and environmental issues and then moves on to site planning energy use materials and building form Natural ventilation systems high efficiency mechanical equipment and alternative energy sources are also covered State of the art buildings of exceptional quality are incorporated throughout the text and illustrate the authors belief that environmentally responsible architecture can be visually exciting They conclude with a selection of detailed case studies of award winning projects including new for this third edition Beaufort Court King's Langley and the National Trust Headquarters Swindon This book is essential reading for architects engineers planners and students of these disciplines

Building Services Journal, 2006 BRE Digest, 2006 Window Design Chartered Institution of Building Services Engineers, 1987 This document is a revision and expansion of Technical Report No Daytime Lighting in Buildings The original document was published in 1962 by the Illuminating Engineering Society A revision was published in 1972 Since then attitudes towards the lighting of buildings have changed Some of the reasons for this are the considerable increase in the cost of energy and the recognition of the need to use it efficiently in the commercial sector particularly the use of computers has resulted in different approaches to the use of space within buildings The earlier document concerned itself mainly with design for daylight This new document while sharing this concern brings together in greater detail than before the other design factors which are influenced by daylight design decisions It is all too easy to design windows to provide daylight and at the same time create problems of unwanted noise intrusion glare summertime overheating and energy waste This guide provides designers with a means of identifying the important factors and a method of solving some of the design problems which will inevitably arise The reader's attention is drawn to the fact that in applying data and ideas from the different sections of the guide there will inevitably be a need to retain a balance between often conflicting requirements This document is intended to supplement the current range of CIBSE documentation and there is ample cross referencing The guide is divided into Part A Design sequence and Part B Design information The reference numbers throughout Part A and the supplementary numbers within the sectional reference lists in Part B refer to the Classified Bibliography on page 64 Part A guides the designer through the various stages of design and indicates the interaction between daylighting considerations and others It is cross referenced to Part B which provides more detailed guidance on prediction methods and basic data along with references to the relevant CIBSE publications The design information section is longer than the design sequence which it supports This is inevitable when alternative evaluation and prediction methods are provided It is not envisaged that a designer would ever work step by step through the whole design sequence For this reason Part A is set out in a three column format to enable the reader more easily to locate the particular material which interests him from the left hand column to read the relevant text in the centre column and to pick up the references from the right hand column Many aspects of window design may legitimately be based on experience or intuition rather than on formal analysis for example the use of splayed reveals the position of glazing bars and the use of the colour The role of the design sequence is to prompt the designer when he reaches an impasse and to offer a rational basis for decision making whenever necessary This publication refers to the design of conventional windows in the United Kingdom though it may also apply to other localities with a similar climate Some of the procedures presented are relatively new for example the concept of average daylight factor Although values of average daylight factor have been recommended it should be noted that experience of what the precise values imply in terms of daylight quality and quantity is limited and the recommendations may be changed in the light of experience On a similar note some of the techniques presented for designing conventional windows may not be totally reliable when applied to atrium design Therefore caution is urged when applying the content of the guide to anything other than conventional fenestration In this content window covers vertical glazing in walls and glazing in sloping environments such as roofs Some aspects of window design are beyond the scope of this guide such as constructional methods or problems of strength or weather tightness Guidance on these aspects can be obtained from the window manufacturers

CIBSE Guide ,1978 Renewable Energy Sources for Buildings Andrew Thorne,2006 Design for Improved Solar Shading Control ,2006 Museum Practice ,2000 Sustainable Design for Interior Environments Susan M. Winchip,2007

Sustainable Design for Interior Environments is the first comprehensive textbook on the subject and is intended for students and instructors as well as practicing designers architects contractors and facility managers With over 150 illustrations and interactive activities the text provides a complete overview of the principles and strategies for sustainable design
