Counterfactual Thought Experiments in World Politics Philip E. Tetlock, Aaron Belkin, 2020-06-30 Political scientists often ask themselves what might have been if history had unfolded differently if Stalin had been ousted as General Party Secretary or if the United States had not dropped the bomb on Japan Although scholars sometimes scoff at applying hypothetical reasoning to world politics the contributors to this volume including James Fearon Richard Lebow Margaret Levi Bruce Russett and Barry Weingast find such counterfactual conjectures not only useful but necessary for drawing causal inferences from historical data Given the importance of counterfactuals it is perhaps surprising that we lack standards for evaluating them To fill this gap Philip Tetlock and Aaron Belkin propose a set of criteria for distinguishing plausible from implausible counterfactual conjectures across a wide range of applications The contributors to this volume make use of these and other criteria to evaluate counterfactuals that emerge in diverse methodological contexts including comparative case studies game theory and statistical analysis Taken together these essays go a long way toward establishing a more nuanced and rigorous framework for assessing counterfactual arguments about world politics in particular and about the social sciences more broadly

Counterfactual Romanticism Damian Walford Davies, 2019-09-18 Innovatively extending counterfactual thought experiments from history and the social sciences to literary historiography criticism and theory Counterfactual Romanticism reveals the ways in which the shapes of Romanticism are conditioned by that which did not come to pass Exploring various modalities of counterfactual speculation and inquiry across a range of Romantic period authors genres and concerns this collection offers a radical new purchase on literary history on the relationship between history and fiction and on our historicist methods to date and thus on the Romanticisms we think we have inherited Counterfactual Romanticism provides a ground breaking method of re reading literary pasts and our own reading presents in the process literary production texts and reading practices are unfossilised and defamiliarised

Davis, 2005-06-07 Introduction Of concepts and conceptualization Scientific concepts and the study of politics If maybe Social behavior and the indeterminacy of norms Methods for the production of practical knowledge The Quest for Knowledge in International Relations Richard Ned Lebow, 2022-04-14 What kinds of knowledge do international relations theories seek How do they search for it and claim to have found it Lebow uses his answers to these questions to say something important about the theory project in IR and in the social sciences more generally

The AI Commander James Johnson, 2023-12-27 What does AI mean for the role of humans in war The AI Commander addresses the largely neglected question of how the fusion of machines into the war machine will affect the human condition of warfare James Johnson emphasizes the mind both human and machine and the mechanisms of thought intelligence consciousness emotion memory experience etc to consider the effects of AI and autonomy on the human condition of war Johnson investigates the vexing and misunderstood and at times contradictory ethical moral and normative implications whether incremental transformative or revolutionary of synthesizing man and machine in future algorithmic warfare or AI enabled centaur warfighting At the heart of these vexing questions are whether we are inevitably moving toward a situation in which AI enabled autonomous weapons will make strategic decisions in place of humans and thus become the owners of those decisions Can AI powered systems replace human commanders And more importantly should they The AI Commander argues that AI cannot be merely passive and neutral force multipliers of human cognition Instead they will likely become either by conscious choice or inadvertently strategic actors in war AI will transform the role and nature of human warfare but not necessarily in the ways most observers expect

Forbidden Fruit Richard Ned Lebow,2010-01-18 Could World War I have been averted if Franz Ferdinand and his wife hadn t been murdered by Serbian nationalists in 1914 What if Ronald Reagan had been killed by Hinckley s bullet Would the Cold War have ended as it did In Forbidden Fruit Richard Ned Lebow develops protocols for conducting robust counterfactual thought experiments and uses them to probe the causes and contingency of transformative international developments like World War I and the end of the Cold War He uses experiments surveys and a short story to explore why policymakers historians and international relations scholars are so resistant to the contingency and indeterminism inherent in open ended nonlinear systems Most controversially Lebow argues that the difference between counterfactual and so called factual arguments is misleading as both can be evidence rich and logically persuasive A must read for social scientists

Forbidden Fruit also examines the binary between fact and fiction and the use of counterfactuals in fictional works like Philip Roth s The Plot Against America to understand complex causation and its implications for who we are and what we think makes the social world work

Choice of the Commission for Environmental Cooperation Linda J. Allen, 2005 For over a century states have been crafting international institutions to address a wide range of environmental problems but the effectiveness of these institutions has been limited Theories of international relations have historically guided research on these institutions but this scholarship has failed to provide adequate insights into why states have not been able to design effective institutions This study utilizes an alternative approach a theory of domestic politics in particular the positive theory of public bureaucracies to analyze the design of these institutions The main thesis of this study is that the design of international environmental institutions reflects efforts of political actors to overcome problems of expertise political uncertainty and political compromise while they seek to achieve their policy goals within a particular political arena rather than efforts by states to rationally pursue mutually beneficial joint gains or a desire of a powerful hegemon to cater to its own self interest To test this thesis this study examines the institutional choices associated with the creation of the North American Commission for Environmental Cooperation CEC This research consists of a single case study that draws on multiple sources of qualitative and quantitative data collected from documentation archival records interviews written surveys and direct observation and analyzed using counterfactuals and process tracing for qualitative data and descriptive statistics for quantitative data The findings of this research indicate that the positive theory of public bureaucracies has greater explanatory power for the institutional design of the CEC than rival theories hegemonic stability and functionalist theories Overall this research suggests that this theory of domestic politics offers a potentially useful theoretical approach for understanding the institutional design of international institutions
