

- c) Retrieval - getting information out of memory storage
2. Parallel processing - the processing of many aspects of a problem simultaneously; the brain's natural mode of information processing for many functions.
 - a) Connectionism views memories as products of interconnected neural networks.
3. Richard Atkinson and Richard Shiffrin proposed a three-stage memory-forming process:
 - a) We first record information as a fleeting sensory memory - the immediate, very brief recording of sensory information into the memory system.
 - b) We then process information into short-term memory - activated memory that holds a few items briefly, such as the seven digits of a phone number while dialing, before the information is stored or forgotten - where we encode it through rehearsal. Short term memory is an active desktop where your brain processes information, making sense of new input and linking it with long-term memories.
 - c) Finally, information moves into long-term memory - the relatively permanent and limitless storehouse of the memory system, including knowledge, skills and experience - for later retrieval.
4. Working memory - a newer understanding of short-term memory that focuses on conscious, active processing of incoming auditory and visual-spatial information, and of information retrieved from long-term memory.

II. Building Memories: Encoding

- A. Dual-Track Memory: Effortful versus Automatic Processing
 1. Explicit memories - memories of facts/experiences that one can consciously know and declare
 - a) We encode explicit memories through effortful processing - encoding that requires attention and conscious effort.
 2. Automatic processing - unconscious encoding of incidental information, such as space, time and frequency, and of well-learned information, such as word meanings.
 - a) Automatic processing produces implicit memories - retention independent of conscious recollection
- B. Automatic Processing and Implicit Memories
 1. Our implicit memories include procedural memory for automatic skills and
