

Chapter 18 Reading Guide: Early Latin America

CHAPTER OBJECTIVES

The first Latin American subjects of European colonial exploration came to the Americas in the 15th century, when Christopher Columbus sailed across the Atlantic Ocean from Spain in the search of a way to reach the Indies. His explorations led to the European discovery of the Americas, which in turn led to the colonization of the Americas by the Spanish, Portuguese, French, British, and other European powers. The Americas were divided into colonies, which were governed by the European powers. The colonies were often ruled by a governor appointed by the European power. The colonies were often ruled by a governor appointed by the European power. The colonies were often ruled by a governor appointed by the European power.
