

food and water and they eventually die. Past that, it's case by case. An email came in last night. I saw two more from the same sender at the top of the page so I opened what was the third one.

Oh and btw HEIDI or likely HENRY I am guessing - thank you for showing your true colors on that you're only interested in an email response back to a MALE gay and young, Midwest - whatever. Glad I didn't buy the fucking books.

I wrote this person back and explained I get to the mail as best as I can. She wrote back and again said I only write back to males. This isn't true. She wrote to an address we haven't used for years. I think it's Reddit that has it posted in their relentless search for truth. I won't be going back to that address page ever again. A few years ago, I started to, or at least tried to start looking out for myself a little more. It took awhile to establish some boundaries because I had grown so used to people walking on me like the sender of that email. Signing things for people and then seeing them on eBay days later, emails I had written to someone being posted on some site got old. I had to start doing what I could to stop staying at the Get Treated Like An Asshole Hotel. When things like this happen, it makes it so hard to not see it for what it is. I think the best thing for me is to just do the work and keep to myself as much as possible.

I'm like a show dog, or the bear at the circus that does the trick. I do the thing and that's what I'm good for. I should leave it at that. Like a plumber. The guy comes over, fixes the problem, you thank him and he leaves. You don't ask him to hang out with you next weekend. Human interaction is like being in traffic. You have to steer carefully otherwise you collide.

When I get spam mail, like the offer to hold onto someone's money

Debates in the Digital Humanities 2016 Matthew K. Gold, Lauren F. Klein, 2016-05-18 Pairing full length scholarly essays with shorter pieces drawn from scholarly blogs and conference presentations as well as commissioned interviews and position statements Debates in the Digital Humanities 2016 reveals a dynamic view of a field in negotiation with its identity methods and reach. Pieces in the book explore how DH can and must change in response to social justice movements and events like Ferguson how DH alters and is altered by community college classrooms and how scholars applying DH approaches to feminist studies queer studies and black studies might reframe the commitments of DH analysts. Numerous contributors examine the movement of interdisciplinary DH work into areas such as history art history and archaeology and a special forum on large scale text mining brings together position statements on a fast growing area of DH research. In the multivalent aspects of its arguments progressing across a range of platforms and environments Debates in the Digital Humanities 2016 offers a vision of DH as an expanded field new possibilities differently structured. Published simultaneously in print e book and interactive webtext formats each DH annual will be a book length publication highlighting the particular debates that have shaped the discipline in a given year. By identifying key issues as they unfold and by providing a hybrid model of open access publication these volumes and the Debates in the Digital Humanities series will articulate the present contours of the field and help forge its future.
