Plutôt que de tenter d'expliquer les comportements suicidaires par les problèmes sociaux et leurs classifications statistiques ou encore les caractéristiques individuelles, psychologiques, familiales et socio-économiques, cette étude appréhende le suicide à travers les modes de raisonnement que véhiculent les discours. Son sujet s'inscrit dans la lignée de recherches en psychologie des représentations sociales de la santé. Cette étude montre que le suicide merge de systèmes complexes de croyances, d'attitudes, de normes et de traditions spécifiques en fonction de la construction mentale qu'en laborent les individus. Le suicide prend toute sa signification au sein des rapports sociaux et des différentes interprétations sociales qui lui sont associées. Dans cette perspective, la souffrance psychique, maladie ou mal-être, n'a de sens que selon les croyances sociales, ainsi que les prescriptions et pratiques thérapeutiques mises en place. Prenant comme point de départ que les modèles sociaux, épidémiologiques des comportements suicidaires servent d'ancrage au système de connaissance et aux codes d'interprétation du suicide, socialement véhiculés, cette étude met en évidence l'interdépendance de différents champs représentationnels homogènes du suicide. La lumière de la théorie du noyau central, cette étude montre comment ces différents champs s'articulent au sein de la structure signifiante de la représentation du suicide. Spécifiquement, cette étude met en évidence : le caractère structurant de la notion de souffrance psychique dans sa dimension socialement construite, mais aussi la dimension du corps, bien que celle-ci suscite des mécanismes de déni, le caractère fonctionnel essentiel de la violence du genre et de l'ordalie en tant qu'automatismes mentaux des rapports sociaux. Enfin, un rapprochement est effectué entre la représentation sociale du suicide et celle de la prise de risque. Ainsi, au-delà des caractéristiques individuelles ou sociales, c'est sous une approche intégrative que cette étude met en exergue l'importance de la construction sociale du suicide. Elle conclut en proposant non un modèle additif, mais une approche intégrative qui prend en compte les forces d'interaction entre les mécanismes mentaux et les mécanismes sociaux. C'est dans cette même perspective que s'inscrit le concept de résilience en tant que construction mentale de l'altérité. Une politique de prévention plus sociale pourrait donc reposer sur l'articulation du concept de résilience et du champ ouvert par la théorie du noyau central. Abrieux 1976 au sein de la psychologie sociale des représentations. Moscovici 1961-1976 pour comprendre les logiques des rapports à la souffrance et aux procédés de soulagement qui lui sont consacrés. Evaluation du potentiel suicidaire Shawn C. Shea, 2008-02-06. Pratique et accessible, ce guide est conçu pour accompagner les cliniciens qui interviennent auprès des personnes en détresse psychique majeure. Expert de la conduite de l'entretien clinique, S. C. Shea introduit d'abord les bases de la clinique de la crise suicidaire à travers une compréhension psychopathologique pleine de sensibilité du chaos psychique et du désespoir. Ensuite, l'auteur montre de manière très approfondie et l'aide de nombreuses situations illustrées par des dialogues comment entrer en contact avec ces personnes, comment valuer leur potentiel suicidaire et surtout comment entrevoir avec elles puis construire un autre chemin L exigence de l auteur envers lui m me invite le lecteur devenir encore un meilleur clinicien face aux personnes suicidaires En particulier il nous propose une technique d entretien innovante qui permet avec pr cision et tout en douceur d valuer les id es les intentions et les planifications suicidaires avec la m thode de l valuation Chronologique des v nements Suicidaires ECES Dans le cadre de la pr vention du suicide l utilisation appropri e de cette m thode est un levier essentiel pour changer le cours d un destin Il permet d une part au clinicien de savoir o en est exactement la planification suicidaire et d autre part au patient de savoir que quelqu un peut venir le sortir du couloir de la mort avec comp tence et humanit
