Commencement, July 30, 1873 (Classic Reprint) Worcester Polytechnic Institute, 2015-07-08 Excerpt from Commencement July 30 1873 In introducing the Addresses Mr Salisbury the President said Will you permit me to bring to notice an interesting circumstance John Boynton Esq the original founder of this Institute died before these Walls were erected Hon Ichabod Washburn the founder of the Mechanical Department died on August 30 1868 several months before his department was in active operation He said he desired and hoped to forge the first piece of iron for the shop but he was not permitted We rejoice that with the death of these honored benefactors their sentiments and the thoughts and reasonings which are the framework of the Institute did not die They still live not only in the well considered documents of gift but also in the persons of the confidential counsellors whose judgment was paramount in determining the scope and system of the enterprise and they have added more valuable labor as Trustees in the first years These wise counsellors are with us to day and they will address you Address of Hon Emory Washburn The occasion furnishes me the subject of my remarks In taking part in the closing exercises of an academic year of a school of practical science I hardly feel at liberty to go outside of the claims of popular education as we have seen it illustrated here today In the half hour to which I am limited not only must I confine myself to a single topic but even of that I must omit much that would suggest itself as proper for the occasion I will not stop when speaking to a Massachusetts audience to show that for a young man starting in life education is an indispensable condition of success Physical energy robust health muscular activity are not enough He must be taught how to use these he must learn the relation there is between the functions of the brain and those of the body he must be able to exemplify the operations of the will and the judgment in applying the forces at his command in the way of skill in achieving results or he will be little better than the savage who wastes the superabundance of his strength in a vain conflict with the forces of nature The term education does not necessarily imply the study of books nor the discipline of a school Men are often educated their powers developed and their judgment disciplined by the circumstances by which they are surrounded There is a class of self made men in whom that invaluable quality which we call mother wit has been drawn out by the force of necessity and who in the ordinary affairs of life seem to act by a kind of intuitive perception of what others acquire only by diligence and study About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works The Classical Poetry of the Japanese Basil Hall Chamberlain, 1880
