Mammals

Mammals come in many shapes and sizes. They can be very large, like the elephant or the whale. They can be very small, like the mouse. Mammals can fly in the sky, swim in the water, or walk on the ground. Mammals are different in many ways, but all mammals have a few things in common. All mammals have a backbone. Mammals are the only animals with hair. All mammals breathe air. Even the dolphin, which spends all of its time in the water, must come to the surface to breathe air. All mammals are warm-blooded, which means their body temperatures stay pretty much the same regardless of the outside temperature. Almost all mammals have babies that are born alive instead of hatching from eggs. All mammals have babies that are old enough to find food on their own.

Some mammals eat their food. Most mammals are called omnivores. Eggs, dogs, and birds are omnivores. Some mammals eat only plants. These mammals are called herbivores. Elephants, giraffes, and horses are herbivores. Other mammals, such as humans, eat both plants and meat. Mammals that eat meat and plants are called carnivores. All other mammals eat only meat. These mammals are called carnivores. Omnivores include the duck and the chicken.
