Challenging Operations Challenging Operations:

Challenging Operations Katherine C. Kellogg, 2011-07-30 In 2003 in the face of errors and accidents caused by medical and surgical trainees the American Council of Graduate Medical Education mandated a reduction in resident work hours to eighty per week Over the course of two and a half years spent observing residents and staff surgeons trying to implement this new regulation Katherine C Kellogg discovered that resistance to it was both strong and successful in fact two of the three hospitals she studied failed to make the change Challenging Operations takes up the apparent paradox of medical professionals resisting reforms designed to help them and their patients Through vivid anecdotes interviews and incisive observation and analysis Kellogg shows the complex ways that institutional reforms spark resistance when they challenge long standing beliefs roles and systems of authority At a time when numerous policies have been enacted to address the nation s soaring medical costs uneven access to care and shortage of primary care physicians Challenging Operations sheds new light on the difficulty of implementing reforms and offers concrete recommendations for effectively meeting that challenge

Peace Operations Donald C. F. Daniel, Patricia Taft, Sharon Wiharta, 2008-07-30 Trends in the number and scope of peace operations since 2000 evidence heightened international appreciation for their value in crisis response and regional stabilization Peace Operations Trends Progress and Prospects addresses national and institutional capacities to undertake such operations by going beyond what is available in previously published literature Part one focuses on developments across regions and countries It builds on data gathering projects undertaken at Georgetown University s Center for Peace and Security Studies CPASS the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute SIPRI and the Folke Bernadotte Academy FBA that offer new information about national contributions to operations and about the organizations through which they make those contributions The information provides the bases for arriving at unique insights about the characteristics of contributors and about the division of labor between the United Nations and other international entities Part two looks to trends and prospects within regions and nations Unlike other studies that focus only on regions with well established track records specifically Europe and Africa this book also looks to the other major areas of the world and poses two questions concerning them If little or nothing has been done institutionally in a region why not What should be expected This groundbreaking volume will help policymakers and academics understand better the regional and national factors shaping the prospects for peace operations into the next decade
