Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature ,1912      Guide to Microforms in Print ,1998      Community Nutrition for

Developing Countries Norman J. Temple ,Nelia Steyn,2016-03-31 Nutrition textbooks used by universities and colleges in developing countries have very often been written by scholars who live and work in North America or the United Kingdom And while the research and information they present is sound the nutrition related health challenges with which developing countries must grapple differ considerably from those found in highly industrialized Western nations The primary aim of Community Nutrition for Developing Countries is to provide a book that meets the needs of nutritionists and other health professionals living and working in developing countries Written by both scholars and practitioners the volume draws on their wealth of knowledge experience and understanding of nutrition in developing countries to provide nutrition professionals with all the information they require Each chapter addresses a specific nutrition challenge currently faced by developing countries such as food security food safety disease prevention maternal health and effective nutrition policy In addition the volume serves as an invaluable resource for those developing and implementing nutrition education programmes With an emphasis on nutritional education as a means to prevent disease and effectively manage health disorders it is the hope of the nearly three dozen contributors to this work that it will enhance the health and well being of low income populations throughout the world      Instant Insights: Genetic modification of crops Prof James Dale,Dr W. K.

Tushemereirwe,Dr Robert Harding,Adrian Dubock,Wensheng Hou,Pooja Bhatnagar-Mathur,Kiran Kumar Sharma,Denis J. Murphy,P. Zhang,Q. Ma,M. Naconsie,X. Wu,W. Zhou,J. Yang,2021-06-15 This specially curated collection features six reviews of current and key research on genetic modification of crops The first chapter reviews key challenges facing banana production primarily the risk of species decimation by diseases such as Fusarium wilt and considers how genetic modification may be a solution to this The second chapter discusses the development and establishment of Golden Rice a biofortified variety designed as a health intervention to help alleviate the problem of vitamin A deficiency The third chapter details recent advances in the genetic modification of important agronomic traits of soybean crops such as herbicide tolerance and insect resistance The fourth chapter addresses progress in and prospects for transgenic interventions in the improvement of grain legumes concentrating on chickpea pigeonpea cowpea and more The fifth chapter reviews recent research efforts in the production of genetically modified GM oil palm plants and looks towards establishing stable lines of commercially viable GM varieties The final chapter describes recent progress relating to transgenic modification of cassava and how future research can strengthen food security and commercialization of the crop      Achieving sustainable cultivation of rice
Volume 1 Prof. Takuji Sasaki,2017-05-22 Reviews developments in understanding and protecting genetic diversity in rice and how this translates into marker assisted and other developments in breeding Discusses advances in breeding varieties with enhanced properties such as high yield and drought tolerance Summarises current research on understanding and improving nutritional properties such as vitamin and mineral content

Food habits and consumption in developing countries Adel P. den Hartog,Wija A. van Staveren,Inge D. Brouwer,2023-09-04 During the last decade the food and nutrition situation in developing countries has changed dramatically For better or worse urbanization and globalization have altered the diet and nutrition in both rural and urban areas In many developing countries a persistent level of under nutrition exists both in rural areas and in urban slums due to less access to food needed for an active and healthy life On the other hand over nutrition or eating too much has emerged among the middle income groups It is essential to have a better understanding of how people deal with their food in developing countries in order to plan and implement food and nutrition programmes This manual deals with the process of changing food habits and consumption patterns in developing countries Nutritional implications together with practical information is discussed in relationship to conducting field surveys Part one of the manual provides insight into the dynamics of food habits and consumption and its socio economic and cultural dimensions Part two gives practical information on small scale surveys to be carried out within the framework of a nutrition issue including data collecting on food habits and the measurement of food intake This manual addresses professionals with practical or academic training and those who are involved in various types of food and nutrition programmes or related activities It can also be used as a handbook in food and nutrition training courses at higher and at academic level
