Spitler, 1992 Provide a comprehensive source of theory procedures and data for cooling and heating load calculations for other than residential buildings HVAC Cooling Load - Calculations and Principles A. Bhatia, 2014-10-16 Heating and cooling load calculations are carried out to estimate the required capacity of heating and cooling systems which can maintain the required conditions in the conditioned space To estimate the required cooling or heating capacities one has to have information regarding the design indoor and outdoor conditions specifications of the building specifications of the conditioned space such as the occupancy activity level various appliances and equipment used etc and any special requirements of the particular application For comfort applications the required indoor conditions are fixed by the criterion of thermal comfort while for industrial or commercial applications the required indoor conditions are fixed by the particular processes being performed or the products being stored Generally heating and cooling load calculations involve a systematic and stepwise procedure which account for all the building energy flows In practice a variety of methods ranging from simple rules of thumb to complex transfer function methods are used to arrive at the building loads This short quick book provides a procedure for preparing a manual calculation for cooling load using CLTD CLF method suggested by ASHRAE and includes two detailed examples For more advanced methods such as TFM the reader should refer to ASHRAE and other handbooks
