Checkmark your check-in mark, this document shows the connection between the EEI Curriculum and the California Common Core State Standards. By teaching the EEI curriculum in your classroom, you will be automatically addressing the common core standards depicted in this guide.

6.6.a.—Energy: It's Not All the Same to You!

In this unit, students learn about five major energy resources, each with its own pros and benefits. This unit emphasizes students' writing about the pros and cons of these selected energy sources. They learn that conservation is a necessary step in the energy we produce. In conducting a cost/benefit analysis, students learn to consider not only the products involved in extracting, tapping, and transporting the natural energy resources, but also the byproducts caused in the conversions necessary to produce useful energy—electricity—from these natural energy resources.
