NAME	DATE
SCORE	TIME

- 1. Probability Theory (Ch. 13) - Probability is the study of the likelihood of events occurring. It is a branch of mathematics that deals with the analysis of random events.
- 2. Random Events - Events that occur randomly, without any predictable pattern.
- 3. Probability Distribution - A function that describes the probability of each possible outcome of a random event.
- 4. Expected Value - The average value of a random variable, calculated by multiplying each outcome by its probability and summing the results.
- 5. Variance - A measure of the spread or dispersion of a random variable, calculated as the average of the squared deviations from the expected value.
- 6. Standard Deviation - The square root of the variance, representing the typical distance of outcomes from the expected value.

- 7. Binomial Distribution - A discrete probability distribution that models the number of successes in a fixed number of independent trials, each with a constant probability of success.
- 8. Poisson Distribution - A discrete probability distribution that models the number of events occurring in a fixed interval of time or space, given a constant average rate.
- 9. Normal Distribution - A continuous probability distribution that is symmetric and bell-shaped, representing the distribution of many natural phenomena.
- 10. Central Limit Theorem - A theorem stating that the distribution of the sample mean of a large number of independent, identically distributed random variables will approach a normal distribution, regardless of the shape of the original distribution.

- 11. Sampling Distribution - The distribution of a sample statistic, such as the sample mean, calculated from a large number of random samples.
- 12. Confidence Interval - A range of values that is likely to contain the true population parameter, calculated based on the sample mean and standard deviation.
- 13. Hypothesis Testing - A statistical method used to test a claim or hypothesis about a population parameter, based on sample data.
- 14. P-value - The probability of obtaining a test statistic as extreme as, or more extreme than, the observed value, assuming the null hypothesis is true.
- 15. Significance Level - The threshold value for the p-value, below which the null hypothesis is rejected.

- 16. Regression Analysis - A statistical method used to model the relationship between a dependent variable and one or more independent variables.
- 17. Correlation Coefficient - A measure of the strength and direction of the linear relationship between two variables, ranging from -1 to 1.

- 18. Chi-Square Test - A statistical test used to determine if there is a significant association between two categorical variables.
- 19. F-test - A statistical test used to compare the variances of two populations, often used in the context of ANOVA.
- 20. t-test - A statistical test used to compare the means of two populations, often used in the context of hypothesis testing.

- 21. ANOVA - Analysis of Variance, a statistical test used to compare the means of three or more groups.
- 22. Factorial Design - An experimental design that involves manipulating two or more independent variables simultaneously.
- 23. Randomized Controlled Trial - A type of experimental design where participants are randomly assigned to different treatment groups.

- 24. Blind Study - A study in which the participants are unaware of the treatment they are receiving.
- 25. Double-blind Study - A study in which both the participants and the researchers are unaware of the treatment assignments.
- 26. Placebo Effect - A psychological effect where a person experiences a change in behavior or symptoms due to the belief that they are receiving a treatment.
- 27. Confounder - A variable that is associated with both the independent and dependent variables, potentially distorting the relationship between them.
- 28. Stratification - A statistical technique used to divide a population into subgroups based on certain characteristics, such as age or gender.

- 29. Matching - A statistical technique used to compare two groups of subjects, ensuring that they are similar in certain characteristics.
- 30. Cohort Study - A type of observational study where a group of individuals is followed over time to observe the occurrence of certain events.
- 31. Case-control Study - A type of observational study where individuals with a certain condition are compared to those without, to identify potential risk factors.

- 32. Cross-sectional Study - A type of observational study where data is collected from a single point in time.
- 33. Longitudinal Study - A type of observational study where data is collected from the same individuals over a period of time.
- 34. Retrospective Study - A type of observational study where data is collected from the past.

- 35. Prospective Study - A type of observational study where data is collected from the future.
- 36. Case Report - A detailed description of a single patient's medical history and treatment.
- 37. Case Series - A collection of individual case reports, often used to identify patterns or trends.

- 38. Systematic Review - A comprehensive summary of the results of multiple studies on a specific topic.
- 39. Meta-analysis - A statistical analysis of the results of multiple studies, used to determine the overall effect size.
- 40. Evidence-based Medicine - A medical approach that combines the best available evidence with clinical expertise and patient values.

- 41. Medical Research - The study of the causes, prevention, and treatment of diseases.
- 42. Biomedical Research - Research that combines biology and medicine to understand the underlying mechanisms of disease.
