

Corning pH Electrode Operating Instructions

1. Prior to first usage or after long-term storage, remove the wetting cap and install the bulb protector (supplied only with epoxy body and the Fast-Flow electrodes).
2. Soak the tip of the electrode in hot tap water for 5 minutes. Hold the electrode at the top, and gently shake downward in the same manner as a clinical thermometer to remove any air that may be trapped at the tip of the electrode. Flush the tip of the Fast-Flow electrode by pushing down once on the orange button at the top of the electrode.
3. Unplug the fill hole plug, and attach the electrode to your pH meter. The Fast-Flow electrode fill hole plug may be left in place during use but should be opened every few hours, allowing air into the reference chamber, to maintain consistent junction flow rate.
4. Soak the tip of the electrode in 25 mm of 7.00 buffer until the meter shows a stable value between 6.5 and 7.5.
5. Calibrate the meter and electrode according to the pH meter instruction manual, and proceed with sample measurements.

Note: For best results, always rinse the electrode in distilled water and blot dry between measurements. Temperature is always a factor in pH accuracy. Unless all calibrations and measurements are being done at room temperature, the use of an Automatic Temperature Probe (ATC) is recommended.

Precautions and Limitations

- Do not allow the electrode reference solution to run dry. Add fill solution whenever the level falls more than 25 mm below the fill hole. Change the solution completely every 1-2 months.
- Do not use KCl Saturated with AgCl as the fill solution as it can damage the reference.
- Do not use the electrode in any fluoride or hydrofluoric acid solutions where the pH is less than 5.0 as it will dissolve the pH membrane.
- Do not leave epoxy body electrodes in organic solvents as the electrode tip and body may be damaged. Use glass body electrodes.
- Do not remove the orange rubber plug at the tip of epoxy body electrodes for any reason.
- Do not allow the tip of epoxy body electrodes to come in contact with vessels being heated. Epoxy body electrodes are not suitable for prolonged use in samples that exceed 80°C.
- Not for industrial use. These electrodes are designed for use in general laboratory applications by persons knowledgeable in safe laboratory practices. They are not designed for constant monitoring in process or manufacturing applications.
