Curriculum NAPLAN STEM current Indigenous social justice and gender inequity issues and the place of Australian mathematics curricula on the world stage Dr Christine Ormond Senior Lecturer Edith Cowan University Research and Development in University Mathematics Education Viviane Durand-Guerrier, Reinhard Hochmuth, Elena Nardi, Carl Winsløw, 2021-04-15 In the last thirty years or so the need to address the challenges of teaching and learning mathematics at university level has become increasingly appreciated by university mathematics teachers and beyond by educational institutions around the world. Indeed mathematics is both a condition and an obstacle to success for students in many educational programmes vital to the 21st century knowledge society for example in pure and applied mathematics, engineering, natural sciences, technology, economics, finance, management and so on. This breadth of impact of mathematics implies the urgency of developing research in university mathematics education and of sharing results of this research widely. This book provides a bespoke opportunity for an international audience of researchers in didactics of mathematics, mathematicians and any teacher or researcher with an interest in this area to be informed about state of the art developments and to heed future research agendas. This book emerged from the activities of the research project INDRUM, acronym for International Network for Didactic Research in University Mathematics which aims to contribute to the development of research in didactics of mathematics at all levels of tertiary education with a particular concern for the development of early career researchers in the field and for dialogue with university mathematicians. The aim of the book is to provide a deep synthesis of the research field as it appears through two INDRUM conferences organised in 2016 and 2018. It is an original contribution which highlights key research perspectives, addresses seminal theoretical and methodological issues and reports substantial results concerning the teaching and learning of mathematics at university level including the teaching and learning of specific topics in advanced mathematics across a wide range of university programmes. On the Complexity Analysis and Visualization of Musical Information António M. Lopes, J. A. Tenreiro Machado, This paper considers several distinct mathematical and computational tools namely complexity, dimensionality reduction, clustering and visualization techniques for characterizing music. Digital representations of musical works of four artists are analyzed by means of distinct indices and visualized using the multidimensional scaling technique. The results are then correlated with the artists' musical production. The patterns found in the data demonstrate the effectiveness of the approach for assessing the complexity of musical information.
