Dow, Lucinda P. Cockrell, 2018-08-16 How to Weed Your Attic Getting Rid of Junk without Destroying History provides answers to the question when someone dies or it s time to move or just clean out the attic garage or basement what papers and other things should we save for the sake of history and what can we safely toss After reading this clearly written book by a retired archivist and a retired museum curator you can comfortably clean out your attic or office garage basement cupboards with confidence that you re not tossing out historically valuable or invaluable things and that you will not ask your local museum to take things that really belong in a thrift store junk yard or recycle center The book first describes how to identify historically important documents and artifacts The authors explain a few simple rules 1 a complete or long collection has more value than a partial one 2 emotive material provides a richer picture than factual material 3 unique usually has more value than mass produced 4 documents and objects carry more information than they intend to and 5 a 25 year rule exists without our consciously recognizing it They then apply the rules and assess the probable historical value of four different types of materials mass produced from books to vehicles individually created from art work to toys business materials from governance documents to uniforms and commemorative materials from awards to wedding dresses The book includes a brief description of the basics for preserving materials the reader wants to keep and references sources for more detail It also recognizes that the reader may not want to keep stuff that clearly has historical value For those readers the authors describe how to donate materials to a cultural repository In broad strokes they explain how repositories differ what the repository will want to know about the stuff you re offering where an appraiser and or tax advisor fits into the process and what the reader can expect the repository to do and not do Finally the book addresses unexpected issues that may arise around questions of legal ownership and privacy Throughout the book the authors illustrate their points using photographs and vignettes Conserving the Contents of an Historic House ,1989* Historic Homes and Places and Genealogical and Personal Memoirs Relating to the Families of Middlesex County, Massachusetts William Richard Cutter, 1908 The Old-house Journal ,2000 Preservation ,1999 Collections ,2005 Caring for Old Houses Pamela Cunnington, 2002 This book tells you how to tackle the problems of restoration who to turn to for advice materials and even money All parts of the house roof walls chimneys staircases are systematically discussed and explained

Hanson,2019-12-10 How to accommodate contemporary life in a historic house This book does not repeat basic information that is readily available in many standard DIY books about carpentry wiring and plumbing Rather it shows how to adapt those DIY skills to the specialized needs of a historic house Although there are other books about renovating old houses this is the first that prioritizes the identification and preservation of the historic character defining features of a house as a starting point in the process That is the purpose of this book to describe and illustrate a best practices approach for updating historic homes for modern life in ways that do not attempt to turn an old house into a new one The book also suggests many ways to save money in the process without settling for cheap or inappropriate solutions Scott Hanson is a historic building preservation professional and has 40 years experience rehabilitating historic houses He has illustrated this authoritative book with hundreds of step by step photos illustrations charts and decision making guides Interspersed throughout are photo essays of 13 restored historic houses representing a range of periods and architectural styles Italianate Victorian Queen Anne Federal Colonial Colonial Revival Greek Revival Ranch Adobe Craftsman Shingle and Rustic With interior and exterior photography by David Clough these multi page features show what can be achieved when a historic home is renovated with a desire to preserve or restore as much historic character as possible Country Home ,1999
