Clinical Psychology :

Clinical Psychology David C.S. Richard, Steven K. Huprich, 2011-09-02 Clinical Psychology is a graduate level introduction to the field of clinical psychology. While most textbooks focus on either assessment, treatment or research, this textbook covers all three together specifically for the introductory level graduate course. Chapter coverage is diverse and contributors come from both PhD and PsyD programs and a variety of theoretical orientations. Chapter topics cover the major activities of the contemporary clinical psychologist with an introduction focusing on training models. The book has a mentoring style designed to highlight the relevance of the topics discussed to clinicians in training. Assessment and treatment chapters focus on evidence based practice, comparing and contrasting different options, the basis for clinical choice between them and efficacy of same. It will also introduce the business and ethical aspects of the clinical career that current introductory books do not include such as ethics in assessment, treatment and research, third party payers, technological developments, dissemination of research findings, cross cultural issues and the future of the profession. The text is designed for students in their first year of clinical psychology graduate training. Includes assessment, treatment and practice issues. Compares and contrasts different therapeutic styles. Exemplifies practical application through case studies. Focuses on evidence based practice. Orients future clinicians to contemporary issues facing psychological practices.

Psychology in Medical Settings Jerry J. Sweet, Ronald H. Rozensky, Steven M. Tovian, 1991-04-30 For two decades I have been responding to questions about the nature of health psychology and how it differs from medical psychology behavioral medicine and clinical psychology. From the beginning I have taken the position that any application of psychological theory or practice to problems and issues of the health system is health psychology. I have repeatedly used an analogy to Newell and Simon's General Problem Solver program of the late 1950s and early 1960s which had two major functional parts in addition to the executive component. One was the problem solving core the procedural competence the other was the representation of the problem environment. In the analogy the concepts knowledge and techniques of psychology constitute the core competence the health system in all its complexity is the problem environment. A health psychologist is one whose basic competence in psychology is augmented by a working knowledge of some aspect of the health system. Quite apparently there are functionally distinct aspects of health psychology to the degree that there are meaningful subdivisions in psychological competence and significantly different microenvironments within the health system. I hesitate to refer to them as areas of specialization as the man who gave health psychology its formal definition Joseph Matarazzo has said that there are no specialties in psychology cited in the editors preface to this book.
