Concentrationary Memories Totalitarian Resistance And Cultural Memories:

Concentrationary Memories Griselda Pollock, Max Silverman, 2015-08-25 Concentrationary Memories has as its premise the idea at the heart of Alain Resnais's film Night and Fog 1955 that the concentrationary plague unleashed on the world by the Nazis in the 1930s and 1940s is not simply confined to one place and one time but is now a permanent presence shadowing modern life. It further suggests that memory and indeed art in general must be invoked to show this haunting of the present by this menacing past so that we can read for the signs of terror and counter its deformation of the human. Through working with political and cultural theory on readings of film art photographic and literary practices Concentrationary Memories analyses different cultural responses to concentrationary terror in different sites in the post war period ranging from Auschwitz to Argentina. These readings show how those involved in the cultural production of memories of the horror of totalitarianism sought to find forms languages and image systems which could make sense of and resist the post war condition in which as Hannah Arendt famously stated everything is possible and human beings as human beings become superfluous. Authors include Nicholas Chare Isabelle de la Court Thomas Elsaesser Benjamin Hannavy Cousen Matthew John Claire Launchbury Sylvie Lindeperg Laura Malosetti Costa Griselda Pollock Max Silverman Glenn Sujo Annette Wieviorka and John Wolfe Ackerman.

Concentrationary Art Griselda Pollock, Max Silverman, 2019-04-22 Largely forgotten over the years the seminal work of French poet novelist and camp survivor Jean Cayrol has experienced a revival in the French speaking world since his death in 2005. The book investigates various forms of replacement including AI and doubling incest and bedtricks imposters and revenants human rights and surrogacy and intertextuality and adaptation. Racial Nationalisms Sivamohan Valluvan, Virinder S. Kalra, 2020-12-17 This book addresses the centrality of race and racism in consolidating the nationalisms currently prominent in Brexit Britain Particular attention is given to the issues of refugees borders and bordering and the wider forms of nativist and anti Muslim sentiments that anchor today s increasingly populist forms of nationalist politics It is argued that the forms of scapegoating and alarmism integral to the revival of nationalism in British politics are fundamentally tied to racialised processes Equally however it is argued that such a political climate is not simply discursive but also yields acute forms of governance wherein an increasingly violent attention is given by the state to the border The chapters in the book do however also attempt to think through the possibilities of a constructive response to this moment Emphasis is given here to the everyday cultural textures that might help shape a popular opposition to racial nationalism Similarly the book attempts to unpack the appeal of today s distinctive populism in ways that might be more responsive to anti racist and anti nationalist sentiments Racial Nationalisms will be of interest to academics and researchers studying postcolonialism nationalism ethnic and racial studies and to advanced students of sociology political science and public policy This book was originally published as a special issue of the journal Ethnic and Racial Studies

Concentrationary Imaginaries Griselda Pollock, Max Silverman, 2015-11-30 In 1945 French political prisoners returning from the concentration camps of Germany coined the phrase the concentrationary universe to describe the camps as a terrible political experiment in the destruction of the human This book shows how the unacknowledged legacy of a totalitarian mentality has seeped into the deepest recesses of everyday popular culture It asks if the concentrationary now infests our cultural imaginary normalizing what was once considered horrific and exceptional by transforming into entertainment violations of human life Drawing on the political philosophy of Hannah Arendt and the analyses of violence by Agamben Virilio Lacoue Labarthe and Nancy it also offers close readings of films by Cavani and Haneke that identify and critically expose such an imaginary and hence contest its lingering force The Jewish Quarterly ,2008 Memory and Totalitarianism Luisa Passerini, Understanding Europe s past became an urgent matter with the events of August 1991 in Moscow in the former Soviet Union The invasion of Moscow s streets by Russian people rejecting an attempted coup d etat was the culmination of a process that had been initiated years before and raised crucial questions To what extent can these events be considered the end of an era stretching from World War I to the 1980s when Europe experienced many forms of dictatorship To what extent can the various forms of dictatorship Europe experienced in the twentieth century be grouped together Can any sort of affinity be established between them The new introduction to the paperback edition of this volume in the Memory and Narrative series Leydesdorff and Crownshaw underline the fundamental importance of the struggle for memory and its meaning Memory and Totalitarianism explores the remembered experiences of individuals living under different totalitarian regimes and examines the construction of memory in the aftermath of those regimes collapse It attempts to situate the findings of oral history in the context of contemporary memory It wrestles with the most painful memories that Europeans have of this century at the end of the Cold War These memories compare with oral history s research into such experiences as racist attitudes against blacks in the South or the cultural and psychological effects of apartheid in South Africa or the Aborigines claim to their own history and to a new idea of history in Australia Totalitarianisms are products of the twentieth century that go far beyond earlier manifestations of absolutism and autocracy in their effort to completely control political social and intellectual life They were made possible by modern industrialism and technology Therefore the theme of the book expands to include many other experiences that relate to totalitarian mentalities Luisa Passerini is professor of cultural history at the University of Torino and external professor at the European University Institute Florence Her present trends of research are European identity the historical relationships between the discourse on Europe and the discourse on love gender and generation as historical categories memory and subjectivity Among her recent publications are Europe in Love Love in Europe Imagination and Politics Between the Wars Il mito d Europa Radici antiche per nuovi simboli Selma Leydesdorff is professor of oral history at the University of Amsterdam Her publications include We Lived with Dignity and with Kim Lacy Rogers Trauma Life Stories of Survivors Richard Crownshaw is a lecturer in the Department of English at Manchester Metropolitan University UK where his teaching includes 19th and 20th century American literature and representations of the Holocaust He is also an Associate Fellow of the Institute of Germanic and Romance Studies University of London Concentrationary Memories ,2009 Peripheral Memories Elisabeth Boesen,Fabienne Lentz,Michel Margue,Denis Scuto,Renée Wagener,2014-03-15 After a period of intense work on national memory cultures we are observing a growing interest in memory both as a social and an individual practice Memory studies tend to focus on a particular field of memory processes namely those connected with war persecution and expulsion In this sense the memory or rather the trauma of the Holocaust is paradigmatic for the entire research field The Holocaust is furthermore increasingly understood as constitutive of a global memory community which transcends national memories and mediates universal values The present volume diverges from this perspective by dealing also with everyday subjects of memory This allows for a more complete view of the interdependencies between public and private memory and more specifically public and family memory

Memory and Totalitarianism Luisa Passerini, 2017-10-06 Understanding Europe's past became an urgent matter with the events of August 1991 in Moscow in the former Soviet Union The invasion of Moscow's streets by Russian people rejecting an attempted coup d'etat was the culmination of a process that had been initiated years before and raised crucial questions To what extent can these events be considered the end of an era stretching from World War I to the 1980s when Europe experienced many forms of dictatorship To what extent can the various forms of dictatorship Europe experienced in the twentieth century be grouped together Can any sort of affinity be established between them The new introduction to the paperback edition of this volume in the Memory and Narrative series Leydesdorff and Crownshaw underline the fundamental importance of the struggle for memory and its meaning Memory and Totalitarianism explores the remembered experiences of individuals living under different totalitarian regimes and examines the construction of memory in the aftermath of those regimes' collapse It attempts to situate the findings of oral history in the context of contemporary memory It wrestles with the most painful memories that Europeans have of this century at the end of the Cold War These memories compare with oral history's research into such experiences as racist attitudes against blacks in the South or the cultural and psychological effects of apartheid in South Africa or the Aborigines' claim to their own history and to a new idea of history in Australia Totalitarianisms are products of the twentieth century that go far beyond earlier manifestations of absolutism and autocracy in their effort to completely control political social and intellectual life They were made possible by modern industrialism and technology Therefore the theme of the book expands to include many other experiences that relate to totalitarian mentalities
