The third edition of this popular handbook addresses not only the dramatic growth of computing as a discipline but also the relatively new delineation of computing as a family of separate disciplines as described by the Association for Computing Machinery ACM the IEEE Computer Society IEEE CS and the Association for Information Systems AIS. Both volumes in the set describe what occurs in research laboratories educational institutions and public and private organizations to advance the effective development and use of computers and computing in today's world. Research level survey articles provide deep insights into the computing discipline enabling readers to understand the principles and practices that drive computing education research and development in the twenty first century. Chapters are organized with minimal interdependence so that they can be read in any order and each volume contains a table of contents and subject index offering easy access to specific topics. The first volume of this popular handbook mirrors the modern taxonomy of computer science and software engineering as described by the Association for Computing Machinery ACM and the IEEE Computer Society IEEE CS. Written by established leading experts and influential young researchers it examines the elements involved in designing and implementing software new areas in which computers are being used and ways to solve computing problems. The book also explores our current understanding of software engineering and its effect on the practice of software development and the education of software professionals. The second volume of this popular handbook demonstrates the richness and breadth of the IS and IT disciplines. The book explores their close links to the practice of using managing and developing IT based solutions to advance the goals of modern organizational environments. Established leading experts and influential young researchers present introductions to the current status and future directions of research and give in depth perspectives on the contributions of academic research to the practice of IS and IT development use and management.
