Confessions Of A Country Architect:

Confessions of a Country Architect Don Metz, 2007 Reminiscent of James Herriot's All Creatures Great and Small Don Metz's Confessions describe the life of a domestic country architect with warm wry humor and often slapstick pathos This book will delight all those who have built a house forearm those summoning up the courage to do so and calm those who realize their talents might be better confined to an armchair with a view Readers will be seduced by the author's adventures as he confronts the awkward intractable and hilariously messy job of building dreams

Designing Architecture Andy Pressman, 2012 Designing Architecture is an indispensable tool to assist both students and young architects in formulating an idea transforming it into a building and making effective design decisions This highly focused book offers explicit guidance to students and young professionals on how to approach analyze and execute specific tasks develop and refine a process to facilitate the best possible design projects and create meaningful architectural form Case studies augment the text and chronicle fascinating applications of the design process Designing Architecture will inspire readers to elevate the quality of preliminary designs and unravel some of the mystery of creating the most beautiful responsive and responsible architectural design possible
