Plane Curves of the Eighth Order Elizabeth Buchanan Cowley, 1908 Canadian Journal of Mathematics, 1967 Multiple View Geometry in Computer Vision Richard Hartley, Andrew Zisserman, 2004-03-25 A basic problem in computer vision is to understand the structure of a real world scene given several images of it Techniques for solving this problem are taken from projective geometry and photogrammetry Here the authors cover the geometric principles and their algebraic representation in terms of camera projection matrices the fundamental matrix and the trifocal tensor The theory and methods of computation of these entities are discussed with real examples as is their use in the reconstruction of scenes from multiple images The new edition features an extended introduction covering the key ideas in the book which itself has been updated with additional examples and appendices and significant new results which have appeared since the first edition Comprehensive background material is provided so readers familiar with linear algebra and basic numerical methods can understand the projective geometry and estimation algorithms presented and implement the algorithms directly from the book Library of Congress Catalog: Motion Pictures and Filmstrips Library of Congress, 1968 The Standup Conic Lee Whitt, 1981 Practical Geometry ... Edward Wyndham Tarn, 1871

Readings in Computer Vision Martin A. Fischler, Oscar Firschein, 2014-06-28 The field of computer vision combines techniques from physics mathematics psychology artificial intelligence and computer science to examine how machines might construct meaningful descriptions of their surrounding environment The editors of this volume prominent researchers and leaders of the SRI International AI Center Perception Group have selected sixty papers most published since 1980 with the viewpoint that computer vision is concerned with solving seven basic problems Reconstructing 3D scenes from 2D images Decomposing images into their component parts Recognizing and assigning labels to scene objects Deducing and describing relations among scene objects Determining the nature of computer architectures that can support the visual function Representing abstractions in the world of computer memory Matching stored descriptions to image representation Each chapter of this volume addresses one of these problems through an introductory discussion which identifies major ideas and summarizes approaches and through reprints of key research papers Two appendices on crucial assumptions in image interpretation and on parallel architectures for vision
