Handbook of Education Politics and Policy Bruce S. Cooper, James G. Cibulka, Lance D. Fusarelli, 2014-11-10 This revised edition of the Handbook of Education Politics and Policy presents the latest research and theory on the most important topics within the field of the politics of education. Well known scholars in the fields of school leadership, politics, policy, law, finance and educational reform examine the institutional backdrop to our educational system, the political behaviors and cultural influences operating within schools and the ideological and philosophical positions that frame discussions of educational equity and reform. In its second edition this comprehensive handbook has been updated to capture recent developments in the politics of education including Race to the Top and the Common Core State Standards and to address the changing role politics play in shaping and influencing school policy and reform. Detailed discussions of key topics touch upon important themes in educational politics helping leaders understand issues of innovation, teacher evaluation, tensions between state and federal lawmakers over new reforms and testing and how to increase student achievement. Chapter authors also provide suggestions for improving the political behaviors of key educational groups and individuals with the hope that an understanding of political goals, governance processes and policy outcomes may contribute to ongoing school reform.

English abstract In his recent book Is Water H2O Hasok Chang presents a detailed analysis of scientific realism and enunciates a new concept of it which he names active scientific realism. It is a view of scientific realism that accentuates experimental activity for learning about reality rather than armchair philosophy in the search for utmost metaphysical truth. Chang puts it in a nutshell as follows: If the buzzword for standard realism is truth, it is progress for active realism. Chang (2012: 223) This term paper attempts to critically look at this new concept, put it in the perspective of other realist concepts and find answers to questions like the following: How does Chang's concept fit into the existing landscape of scientific realism? What are the roots of the concept? What is new and attractive in it? What are the weaknesses of the concept? First, I'll try to define scientific realism as a metaphysical and epistemological position as opposed to anti-realism. In the next chapter, I'll present the main arguments for and against scientific realism: the no-miracle argument and the pessimistic meta-induction, and also look at them from Hasok Chang's angle of view. Then a brief overview of common realist positions in philosophy of science will be given, including Hasok Chang's new conception. In the following chapter, I'll try to look critically at some aspects of Chang's Active Scientific Realism and balance the strengths and weaknesses of the concept.
