Dancing Arabs Sayed Kashua, 2004-05-01 The debut novel by twenty eight year old Arab Israeli Sayed Kashua has been praised around the world for its honesty irony humor and its uniquely human portrayal of a young man who moves between two societies becoming a stranger to both Kashua's nameless antihero has big shoes to fill having grown up with the myth of a grandfather who died fighting the Zionists in 1948 and with a father who was jailed for blowing up a school cafeteria in the name of freedom When he is granted a scholarship to an elite Jewish boarding school his family rejoices dreaming that he will grow up to be the first Arab to build an atom bomb But to their dismay he turns out to be a coward devoid of any national pride his only ambition is to fit in with his Jewish peers who reject him He changes his clothes his accent his eating habits and becomes an expert at faking identities sliding between different cultures schools and languages and eventually a Jewish lover and an Arab wife With refreshing candor and self deprecating wit Dancing Arabs brilliantly maps one man's struggle to disentangle his personal and national identities only to tragically and inevitably forfeit both

Let It Be Morning Sayed Kashua, 2007-12-01 Now a major motion picture from award winning director Eran Kolirin A disturbing and powerfully accomplished novel of conflicting allegiances among Arab Israelis from the acclaimed author of Dancing Arabs The Guardian A young Arab journalist returns to his hometown an Arab village in Israel's borderland near the West Bank There his conflicted sense of belonging is forced into crisis when the village becomes a pawn in the endless power struggle that is the Middle East Hoping to reclaim the simplicity of life among his kin the prodigal son returns home to find that nothing is as he remembers everything is smaller the people are petty and provincial But when Israeli tanks surround the village without warning or explanation everyone inside is cut off from the outside world As the situation grows increasingly dire paranoia takes hold and the village community devolves into chaos In Let It Be Morning Arab Israeli author Sayed Kashua once again relates the experience of those caught in the middle the Arab Israelis who are citizens but are separated from many of their countrymen by faith and heritage School Library Journal Kashua writes about the Israeli Arabs balancing act with knowledge and passion Publishers Weekly

Dancing Arabs Sayed Kashua, 2002 Track Changes Sayed Kashua, 2020-01-14 An Arab Israeli man back in Jerusalem to see his estranged father narrates a novel about just how sad fractured and tricky cultural identity can get Seattle Times Having emigrated to America years before a nameless memoirist now residing in Illinois receives word that his estranged father whom he has not spoken to in fourteen years is dying Leaving his wife and their three children he returns to Jerusalem and to his hometown of Tira in Palestine to be by his family's side But few are happy to see him back and geographically and emotionally displaced he feels more alienated from his life than ever Sitting by his father's hospital bed the memoirist begins to remember long buried traumas the root causes of his fallout with his family the catalyst for his marriage and its recent dissolution and his strained relationships with his children all of which is strangely linked to a short story he published years ago about a young girl named Palestine As he plunges deeper into his memory and recounts the history of his land and his love the lines between truth and lies fact and fiction become increasingly blurred Hailed as an unusually gifted storyteller with exceptional insight Jewish Tribune Bernstein Award winning writer Sayed Kashua presents a masterful novel about the stories Palestinians and Israelis tell themselves about their lives and their histories

Native Sayed Kashua, 2016-02-02 Essays by Jerusalem's version of Charles Bukowski Just as aware and critical of his city his family Israel the Arabs but most of all of himself NPR Sayed Kashua has been praised by the New York Times as a master of subtle nuance in dealing with both Arab and Jewish society An Arab Israeli who lived in Jerusalem for most of his life Kashua started writing with the hope of creating one story that both Palestinians and Israelis could relate to rather than two that cannot coexist together He devoted his novels and his satirical weekly column published in Haaretz to telling the Palestinian story and exploring the contradictions of modern Israel while also capturing the nuances of everyday family life in all its tenderness and chaos With an intimate tone fueled by deep seated apprehension and razor sharp ironic wit Kashua has been documenting his own life as well as that of society at large he writes about his children's upbringing and encounters with racism about fatherhood and married life the Jewish Arab conflict his professional ambitions travels around the world as an author and more than anything his love of books and literature He brings forth a series of brilliant caustic wry and fearless reflections on social and cultural dynamics as experienced by someone who straddles two societies One of the most celebrated satirists in Hebrew literature Kashua has an acerbic dry wit and a talent for turning everyday events into apocalyptic scenarios Philadelphia Inquirer What is most striking in these columns is the universality of what it means to be a father husband and man Toronto Star

Rethinking Peace Alexander Laban Hinton, Giorgio Shani, Jeremiah Alberg, 2019-02-19 Long considered a subfield of international relations and political science Peace Studies has solidified its place as an interdisciplinary field in its own right with a canon degree programs journals conferences and courses taught on the subject Internationally renowned centers offering programs on Peace and Conflict Studies can be found on every continent Almost all of the scholars working in the field however are united by an aspiration attaining Peace whether positive or negative The telos of peace however itself remains undefined and elusive notwithstanding the violence committed in its name This edited volume critically interrogates the field of peace studies considering its assumptions teleologies canons influence enmeshments with power structures biases and normative ends We highlight four interrelated tendencies in peace studies hypostasis strong essentializing tendencies teleology its imagined end normativity the set of often utopian and Eurocentric discourses that guide it and enterprise the attempt to undertake large projects often ones of social engineering to attain this end The chapters in this volume reveal these tendencies while offering new paths to escape them Visit <http://www.rethinkingpeacestudies.com> for further details on the

Rethinking Peace Studies project      Exposure Sayed Kashua, Sayed Qashu, 2013 In Jerusalem two Arabs are on the hunt for the same identity The first is a wealthy lawyer with a thriving practice a large house a Mercedes and a beautiful family With a sophisticated image to uphold he decides one evening to buy a second hand Tolstoy novel recommended by his wife but inside it he finds a love letter in Arabic undeniably in her handwriting Consumed with jealous rage the lawyer vows to take his revenge on the book's previous owner Elsewhere in the city a young social worker is struggling to make ends meet In desperation he takes an unenviable job as the night time carer of a comatose young Jew Over the long dark nights that follow he pieces together the story of his enigmatic patient and finds that the barriers that ought to separate their lives are more permeable than he could ever have imagined As they venture further into deception dredging up secrets and ghosts both real and imagined the lawyer and the carer uncover the dangerous complexities of identity as their lies bring them ever closer together      Reel Gender Sa'ed Atshan, Katharina Galor, 2022-10-20 Reel Gender is a groundbreaking collection that addresses the collective realities and the filmic representations of Palestinian and Israeli societies The eight essays by leading scholars demonstrate how Palestinian and Israeli film production despite obvious overlaps and similarities and while keeping in mind the inherent asymmetry of power dynamics are at the forefront of engaging gender and sexuality The scholars of this volume construct and deconstruct still and moving images characters and stories that create an entanglement of Palestinian and Israeli cinema Together they portray the region's diverse but unexpectedly intermingled ethnic religious and national communities framed or countered by various societal norms laws and expectations while also defined by colonial realities The essays draw methodologically from the fields of media and cultural studies critical and postcolonial theory feminism post feminism and queer theory      Affiliated Identities in Jewish American Literature David Hadar, 2020-07-23 Focusing on relationships between Jewish American authors and Jewish authors elsewhere in America Europe and Israel this book explores the phenomenon of authorial affiliation the ways in which writers intentionally highlight and perform their connections with other writers Starting with Philip Roth as an entry point and recurring example David Hadar reveals a larger network of authors involved in formations of Jewish American literary identity including among others Cynthia Ozick Saul Bellow Nicole Krauss and Nathan Englander He also shows how Israeli writers such as Sayed Kashua perform their own identities through connections to Jewish Americans Whether by incorporating other writers into fictional work as characters interviewing them publishing critical essays about them or invoking them in paratext or publicity writers use a variety of methods to forge public personas craft their own identities as artists and infuse their art with meaningful cultural associations Hadar's analysis deepens our understanding of Jewish American and Israeli literature positioning them in decentered relation with one another as well as with European writing The result is a thought provoking challenge to the concept of homeland that recasts each of these literary traditions as diasporic and questions the oft assumed centrality of Hebrew and Yiddish to global Jewish literature In the process Hadar offers an approach to studying authorial identity building relevant beyond the field of Jewish literature
