Costa Pinto,Leonardo Morlino,2013-09-13 In recent years the agenda of how to deal with the past has become a central dimension of the quality of contemporary democracies Many years after the process of authoritarian breakdown consolidated democracies revisit the past either symbolically or to punish the elites associated with the previous authoritarian regimes New factors like international environment conditionality party cleavages memory cycles and commemorations or politics of apologies do sometimes bring the past back into the political arena This book addresses such themes by dealing with two dimensions of authoritarian legacies in Southern European democracies repressive institutions and human rights abuses The thrust of this book is that we should view transitional justice as part of a broader politics of the past an ongoing process in which elites and society under democratic rule revise the meaning of the past in terms of what they hope to achieve in the framework to media literacy today examining media literacy s various uses the tensions between them and what this means for people communities and the contemporary configurations of social class In The Uses of Literacy 1957 Richard Hoggart wrote about how his working class community in the North of England were at once using the new mass literacy for self improvement education social mobility and civic engagement and at the same time the powerful were seizing the opportunity also to use this expansion in literacy through the new popular culture for commercial and political ends Working in the intersection between education cultural studies and literacies the authors write about media literacy as a contested under
