Cultivating Neighborhood Bryan K. Langlands, 2014-08-25 Why have so many churches started community gardens over the past decade Are they simply a fad Or do community gardens somehow connect more deeply with the mission of the churches that launch them What can churches and faith based institutions interested in starting community gardens learn from those that have started their own gardens over the past decade And what would it mean for a church to put Christ in the center of its community gardening efforts In order to discern best practices for launching Christ centered community gardens moving forward Cultivating Neighborhood begins with a brief survey of the history of community gardens in the United States and builds a constructive theological framework for community gardening grounded in the practice of Christian hospitality It continues with two case studies of church sponsored community gardens and one case study of a community garden sponsored by a Christian college all three of which were created between 2003 and 2011 The results of this research conclude with a new definition of Christ centered community gardening and an outline of fifteen best practices for launching a Christ centered community garden

Culture Making (EasyRead Comfort Edition), Work Ben Witherington III, 2011-01-15. Most Christians spend most of their waking hours working yet many regard work as at best a necessary evil just one more unfortunate byproduct of humanity's fall from grace. Not so says Ben Witherington III and in Work: A Kingdom Perspective on Labor he considers work as neither the curse nor the cure of human life but rather as something good that God has given us to do. In this brief primer on the biblical theology and ethics of work, Witherington carefully unpacks the concept of work considering its relationship to rest, play, worship, the normal cycle of human life and the coming Kingdom of God. Work as calling, work as ministry, work as a way to make a living and the notably unbiblical notion of retirement. Witherington's Work engages these subjects and more combining scholarly acumen with good humor, common sense, cultural awareness and biblically based insights from Genesis to Revelation. Ben Witherington has given the whole people of God something desperately needed to make sense of Monday to Friday: a theology of work that breaks down the heretical sacred/secular distinction. Offers a work view and life view that, if embraced, would revitalize the mission of God's people in the world. It's that good. R. Paul Stevens, author of The Other Six Days and Taking Your Soul to Work. Conducting a critical dialogue with the theological voices of our day, drawing upon the wisdom of the Christian tradition and offering a sensitive reading of New Testament parables, Witherington delivers sound counsel on the Kingdom meaning of work and its implications for our lives today. Lee Hardy, author of The Fabric of This World.

Architecture, Theology, and Ethics Elise M. Edwards, 2024-03-18. Architecture, Theology, and Ethics: Making Architectural Design More Just argues that architecture design and creativity are theological ethical concerns that ought to be considered more deeply by Christians.

who are committed to social and environmental justice Elise M Edwards discusses the significance of architectural design entering into ongoing conversations in theological ethics and aesthetics She argues that architectural design is not just a professional practice for wealthy clients but rather an activity that everyday people undertake when making choices that shape the spaces they inhabit If Christians think theologically about their agency in these decisions they will discover that architectural design becomes an opportunity to contribute to the flourishing for humanity and God's creation Edwards proposes an approach to architectural design that presents it as prophetic action with the power to shape our world This book then presents five moral commitments that guide design intentions and the process of design towards justice and inclusion Grounded in liberationist feminist and womanist thought Architecture Theology and Ethics makes a compelling case for architecture's relevance to Christian ethics and theology
