

Use the following types of conflict in fiction to help create ideas for plot points within your story:

the character struggles to survive in the face of deadly wildlife, natural disasters, or a post-apocalyptic landscape known as wild animal, known as apocalypse story, example: Hugh Glass or the wilderness (and a vicious bear) in the westward

the character battles against paranormal entities like ghosts, demons, monsters, and other creatures of the occult.

the character fights against a prophecy, attack, or prediction person in identity
story example: Odysseus vs the prophecy in Odysseus Rex the character fights against technology that has become too powerful or is being used for malicious reasons person is smart human person is robot, person is experiment story's premise: Dr. Frankenstein's creation in Frankenstein

What obstacles will the characters in your story face that contrast or intensify the points and truths?

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue or grey ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. On the left side, there is a vertical margin line, creating a narrow left margin. The paper appears to be from a notebook or a standard ruled document. There is no handwriting or other markings on the page.

Frey, 2002-08-03 Offers aspiring authors of novels and screenplays advice on using the classic themes of universal folklore and mythology to structure their works and provides examples from well known fiction and films Mythology in the Modern Novel John J. White, 2015-03-08 J J White reexamines the use of myth in fiction in order to bring a new terminological precision into the field While concentrating on the German novel Mann Broch and Nossack he discusses the work of Alberto Moravia John Bowen Michel Butor and Macdonald Harris as well in order to show the modern predilection for myth in whatever national literature Throughout his discussion Mr White delineates carefully his specific subject the novel in which mythological motifs are used to prefigure events and character Joyce's Ulysses is of course the archetypal novel in this tradition Setting forth his terms and making clear his use of them Mr White then analyzes the wide appeal of the mythological novel for both twentieth century novelists and critics he distinguishes four ways in which modern novelists use myth and surveys the range of critical literature on the subject His concluding chapters are discussions of specific texts in which he differentiates between novels which have a unilinear parallel between myth and plot novels of juxtaposition in which chapters retelling myth parallel modern action and novels of fusion in which the action of the modern account synthesizes more than one mythic prefiguration of mythological motif Originally published in 1972 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905
