

the metrics that matter

the analytics

to follow, you can go to the Analytics tab to see a breakdown of your metrics from the last week, last 28 days, and so on.

Analytics will tell you the total number of video views, likes, comments, and shares your account received. It will show your top videos, and follower activity.

Viewer activity will help you determine the best days and times to post. You don't always have to stick to a schedule, but they are helpful to know when you're likely to get the most views soon after posting! Be sure to check analytics regularly so as to make any changes as your channel grows.

viewer activity

Viewer activity shows you how many views your videos are getting.

performing videos

Analytics will show you the details for that specific video, including its total views, its completion rate (how many people watched your video) to know you're doing well, how many new followers you've gained, and where your views came from (for example, from the For You page, for example.)

When it comes to analytics, look at your best-performing videos and your worst-performing videos. What's the difference? Do your viewers tend to watch videos all the way through, but not the first few? Or maybe your viewers do prefer short videos because it's so valuable and you've seen that trend.

Check analytics weekly and monthly on your best and worst-performing videos and pay attention to completion rate, shares, and so on.
