were concerned not only with stopping the spread of the disease but also with guiding the public's response toward those already infected. Fatal Advice is an examination of how the nation attempted with mixed results to negotiate the fears and concerns brought on by the epidemic. A leading writer on the cultural politics of AIDS, Cindy Patton guides us through the thicket of mass media productions, policy and public health enterprises and activist projects as they sprang up to meet the challenge of the epidemic, shaping the nation's notion of what safe sex is and who ought to know what about it. There is the official story and then there is another involving local groups and AIDS activists. Going back to early government and activist attempts to spread information, Patton traces a slow separation between official advice and that provided by those on the front lines in the battle against AIDS. She shows how American anxieties about teen sex played into the nation's inadequate education and protection of its young people and chronicles the media's attempts to encourage compassion without broaching the touchy subject of sex or disrupting the notion that AIDS was a disease of social and sexual outcasts. Her overview of the relationship between shifting medical perceptions and safe sex advice reveals why radical safe sex educators eventually turned to sexually explicit, including pornographic representations to spread their message and why even these extreme tactics could not overcome the misguided national teaching on AIDS. Patton closes with a stirring manifesto, an urgent call to action for all those who do not want to see the hard lessons of AIDS education and activism wasted or, with these lessons, the loss of so many more lives.

The Routledge Companion to Performance Philosophy, Laura Cull, Ó Maoilearca, Alice Lagaay, 2020-07-08. The Routledge Companion to Performance Philosophy is a volume of especially commissioned critical essays, conversations, collaborative creative and performative writing, mapping the key contexts, debates, methods, discourses and practices in this developing field. Firstly, the collection offers new insights on the fundamental question of how thinking happens, where, when, how and by whom philosophy is performed. Secondly, it provides a plurality of new accounts of performance and performativity as the production of ideas, bodies and knowledges in the arts and beyond. Comprising texts written by international artists, philosophers and scholars from multiple disciplines, the essays engage with questions of how performance thinks and how thought is performed in a wide range of philosophies and performances from the ancient to the contemporary. Concepts and practices from diverse geographical regions and cultural traditions are analysed to draw conclusions about how performance operates across art, philosophy and everyday life. The collection both contributes to and critiques the philosophy of music, dance, theatre and performance, exploring the idea of a philosophy from the arts. It is crucial reading material for those interested in the hierarchy of the relationship between philosophy and the arts, advancing debates on philosophical method and the relation between Performance and Philosophy more broadly.
