Comparative Constitutional Law In Asia:

Comparative Constitutional Law in Asia Rosalind Dixon,Tim Ginsburg,2014-02-28 Comparative constitutional law is a field of increasing importance around the world but much of the literature is focused on Europe North America and English speaking jurisdictions The importance of Asia for the broader field is demonstrated here in Comparative Law in Asia

Ngoc Son Bui,Munin Pongsapan,2025-11-13 This book includes essays in honour of Professor Andrew Harding a leading scholar in the fields of Asian legal studies and comparative constitutional law Written by his colleagues and friends the essays deal with important themes in comparative law in Asia including comparative law methodology and theory comparative constitutional law legal transplants and development and comparative law and society The essays cover

Malaysia Singapore Thailand Myanmar Southeast Asia and Commonwealth Asia Constitutional Courts in Asia Albert H. Y. Chen,Andrew Harding,2018-09-20 The founding of a constitutional court is often an indication of a chosen path of constitutionalism and democracy It is no coincidence that most of the constitutional courts in East and Southeast Asia were established at the same time as the transition of the countries concerned from authoritarianism to liberal constitutional democracy This book is the first to provide systematic narratives and analysis of Asian experiences of constitutional courts and related developments and to introduce comparative historical and theoretical perspectives on these experiences as well as debates on the relevant issues in countries that do not as yet have constitutional courts This volume makes a significant contribution to the systematic and comparative study of constitutional courts constitutional adjudication and constitutional developments in East and Southeast Asia and beyond Constitutional Convergence in East Asia Po Jen Yap,Chien-Chih Lin,2021-11-25 Explains why the constitutional jurisprudence of Hong Kong Taiwan and South Korea is converging and provides analysis of relevant case law

Constitutionalism in Asia Wen-Chen Chang,Li-ann Thio,Kevin YL Tan,Jiunn-rong Yeh,2014-02-19 This book of text cases and materials from Asia is designed for scholars and students of constitutional law and comparative constitutional law The book is divided into 11 chapters arranged thematically around key ideas and controversies enabling the reader to work through the major facets of constitutionalism in the region The book begins with a lengthy introduction that critically examines the study of constitutional orders in Asia highlighting the histories colonial influences and cultural particularities extant in the region This chapter serves both as a provisional orientation towards the major constitutional developments seen in Asia both unique and shared with other regions and as a guide to the controversies encountered in the study of constitutional law in Asia Each of the following chapters is framed by an introductory essay setting out the issues and succinctly highlighting critical perspectives and themes The approach is one of challenge and response whereby questions of constitutional importance are posed and the reader is then led by engaging with primary and secondary materials through the way the various Asian states respond to these questions and challenges Chapter segments are accompanied by notes comments and questions to facilitate critical and comparative analysis as well as recommendations for further reading The book presents a representative range of Asian materials from jurisdictions including Bangladesh China Hong Kong India Japan Mongolia Nepal Pakistan South Korea Sri Lanka Taiwan Timor Leste and the 10 ASEAN states Asian Comparative Constitutional Law, Volume 3 Ngoc Son Bui,Mara Malagodi,Christopher Roberts,2025-12-04 This is the third in a four volume set that provides the definitive account of the major issues of comparative constitutional law in Asia Volume 3 looks at the both the formal and functional aspects of constitutional structure in 18 Asian jurisdictions It considers formal aspects such as legislative executive relations the court system constitutional review including specialist ordinary judicial review and non judicial institutions of constitutional review central local relations and federalism the role of the political parties the role of the military and independent institutions such as audit election and anti corruption institutions It also answers questions about functional aspects of constitutional structure including How do these structural institutions work in practice What are the factors such as political dynamics local culture ethnic diversity and social structure influence their operation The jurisdictions covered are Bangladesh China Hong Kong Indonesia Japan Laos Macau Malaysia Mongolia Myanmar North Korea Pakistan the Philippines Singapore South Korea Sri Lanka Taiwan and Thailand Asian Comparative Constitutional Law, Volume 1 Ngoc Son Bui,Mara

Unstable Constitutionalism Mark Tushnet,Madhav Khosla,2015-09-17 Although the field of constitutional law has become increasingly comparative in recent years its geographic focus has remained limited South Asia despite being the site of the world s largest democracy and a vibrant if turbulent constitutionalism is one of the important neglected regions within the field This book remedies this lack of attention by providing a detailed examination of constitutional law and practice in five South Asian countries India Pakistan Sri Lanka Nepal and Bangladesh Identifying a common theme of volatile change it develops the concept of unstable constitutionalism studying the sources of instability alongside reactions and responses to it By highlighting unique theoretical and practical questions in an underrepresented region Unstable Constitutionalism constitutes an important step toward truly global constitutional scholarship

Proportionality in Asia Po Jen Yap,2020-08-27 Explores how proportionality analysis a legal transplant from the West is judicially enforced by courts around Asia

Comparative Constitutionalism in South Asia Sunil Khilnani,Vikram Raghavan,Arun K. Thiruvengadam,2016 Despite their divergent recent histories and political experiences there is a remarkable degree of constitutional and legal kinship among the South Asian countries. Yet for long legal communities in these countries were in the habit of looking to the West for statutory modelling and jurisprudential innovation. They are however now increasingly reacting to and engaging with constitutional law developments in the neighbouring countries of the region. This pioneering volume maps out the intellectual and historical contours of this little studied field yet one that is critical to South Asia's future. The mutual borrowing, citing and dialogue across the constitutional jurisdictions of South Asia. This nascent but significant development provides the basis the volume argues for a distinct comparative constitutionalism focused on the South Asian region. The essays collected here examine whether the experience so far of comparative law across South Asia offers insight into broader trends in constitutionalism and also ask how the corpus of general comparative constitutional law might benefit from greater familiarity with the South Asian experience. The contributors are broad and diverse in their outlook and experience and their contributions cover a wide range of contemporary constitutional developments in Bangladesh, Bhutan, India, Nepal, Pakistan and Sri Lanka. The topics addressed include substantive issues such as the interface of law and religion and models of secularism in specific South Asian jurisdictions, the challenges confronted by public interest lawyers in championing their causes across courts in South Asia and the evolution of constitutionalism in smaller South Asian polities over time. Additionally some chapters focus on methodological and related challenges to fostering deeper dialogue in the field of constitutional law across South Asian nations.

Social Difference and Constitutionalism in Pan-Asia Susan H. Williams, 2014-02-10. This book addresses the role of constitutions and constitutionalism in dealing with the challenges of social difference such as religion or race and ethnicity. The book brings together lawyers, political scientists, historians, religious studies scholars and area studies experts to consider how constitutions address issues of difference across Pan Asia.
