The scholarly spin on entertainment has been manifested in traditional ways as well as innovative ones. It serves to define the new area of study and provides a theoretical spin for future work in the area. Divided into three basic parts, this book addresses the fundamental mechanisms and processes involved in orienting to and selecting entertainment fare as well as receiving and processing it. It explores the mechanisms and processes by which we are entertained by the media messages we select and receive and provides an opportunity for the application of well established as well as emerging psychological and psychobiological theories to be applied to the study of entertainment in ways that seldom have been utilized previously. Psychology of Entertainment will appeal to scholars, researchers and graduate students in media studies and mass communication, psychology, marketing and other areas contributing to the entertainment studies area.
