Cards. This term is used to describe important tools that allow your computer to connect and communicate with various input and output devices. The term "card" is used because these items are relatively flat in order to fit into the slots provided in the computer case. A computer will probably have a sound card, a video card, a network card and a modem.

RAM. RAM is the abbreviation for random access memory. This is the short term memory that is used to store documents while they are being processed. The amount of RAM in a computer is one of the factors that affect the speed of a computer. RAM attaches to the motherboard via some specific slots. It is important to have the right type of RAM for a specific computer, as RAM has changed over the years.

Processor. The processor is the main "brain" of a computer system. It performs all of the instructions and calculations that are needed and manages the flow of information through a computer. It is also called the CPU (central processing unit). Processors are continually evolving and becoming faster and more powerful. The speed of a processor is measured in megahertz (MHz) or gigahertz (GHz). An older computer might have a processor with a speed of 1000 MHz (equivalent to 1 GHz) or lower, but processors with speeds of over 2 GHz are now common. One processor company, Intel, made a popular series of processors called Pentium. Many reconditioned computers contain Pentium II, Pentium III and Pentium 4 processors, with Pentium 4 being the fastest of these. Intel
