1. (1) (1) (1) - A maze reading assessment is a task that requires lower level students understand and they read silently. The maze is different from traditional comprehension in that it is based completely on the text. After the first sentence, every seventh word in the passage is replaced with the correct word and one distractor. Students choose the word from among the three options that fits best with the rest of the passage.

2. (1) (1) (1) - Capable readers understand the extent of what they read and the meanings of the words as they are used in the text. Lower students with reading difficulties can comprehend what they read with enough to choose words based on common and semantic accuracy. A maze reading assessment can identify these students and measure changes in their reading behavior as the result of instruction or practice.

3. (1) (1) (1) - Students read one passage that has been modified in a specific way. The first sentence of the passage is left intact to provide a meaningful start to the reading. For the rest of the passage, every seventh word is replaced with parentheses in which are listed the correct word from the passage and two distractors arranged randomly. The student circles the word within the parentheses that makes sense with the rest of the passage.

in mathematics galois cohomology is the study of the group cohomology of galois modules that is the application of homological algebra to modules for galois groups a galois group G associated to a field extension L/K acts in a natural way on some abelian groups for example those constructed directly from L but also through other galois representations that may be derived by more abstract means galois cohomology accounts for the way in which taking galois invariant elements fails
