The Sinograph in Digital Language Art Yue-Jin Ho, 2026-01-01 This book presents a study of digital works primarily built using Chinese characters or Japanese kanji to identify the affordances of sinographs. This book considers the digital specificities of the sinograph and unpacks how they influence both artists and readers in creating and receiving works. It also explores how artists utilize the unique affordances of this non alphabetical writing system in their creations and seeks to answer questions that contribute to the growing body of work on sinographs in digital language art to facilitate further understanding and application. Based on the premise that sinographs provide affordances for creating digital works that differ from other writing systems this book investigates how these unique affordances contribute to the meaning making process of sinographic digital language art. This in turn helps expand the scope of interpretation by taking into account both formal factors and cultural contents. By showing how developments in technology have generated opportunities for manipulating language in the digital environment the author expands upon the possibilities afforded by these technologies and their application in commercial products as well as their mode of exploration by artists writers and coders. While theories have emerged for analyzing digital literature most are not specific to any written language and were originally developed for works that use letter based scripts such as English. This book confronts this deficit within the body of work on digital literary analysis. It is a relevant text for scholars and students working in the digital humanities and all areas of digital media and culture.

The New Media Reader Noah Wardrip-Fruin, Nick Montfort, 2003-02-14 A sourcebook of historical written texts, video documentation and working programs that form the foundation of new media. This reader collects the texts, videos and computer programs many of them now almost impossible to find that chronicle the history and form the foundation of the still emerging field of new media. General introductions by Janet Murray and Lev Manovich along with short introductions to each of the texts place the works in their historical context and explain their significance. The texts were originally published between World War II when digital computing, cybernetic feedback and early notions of hypertext and the Internet first appeared and the emergence of the World Wide Web when they entered the mainstream of public life. The texts are by computer scientists, artists, architects, literary writers, interface designers, cultural critics and individuals working across disciplines. The contributors include chronologically Jorge Luis Borges, Vannevar Bush, Alan Turing, Ivan Sutherland, William S. Burroughs, Ted Nelson, Italo Calvino, Marshall McLuhan, Jean Baudrillard, Nicholas Negroponte, Alan Kay, Bill Viola, Sherry Turkle, Richard Stallman, Brenda Laurel, Langdon Winner, Robert Coover and Tim Berners Lee. The CD accompanying the book contains examples of early games, digital art, independent literary efforts, software created at universities and home computer commercial software. Also on the CD is digitized video documenting new media programs and artwork for which no operational version exists. One example is a video record of Douglas Engelbart's first presentation of the mouse, word processor, hyperlink, computer supported cooperative work, video conferencing and the dividing up of the screen we now call non overlapping windows another is documentation of Lynn Hershman's Lorna the first interactive video art installation

The New Fiction Technologies Shawn Edrei, 2021-11-05 The Internet has fundamentally altered our perceptions of narrative and its core components including authorship setting characterization reader reception and more With new trends tropes and conventions emerging at the speed of cyberspace digital media like web comics video games and fan fiction have become laboratories for experimentation on the boundaries of contemporary storytelling While web comics video games and fan fiction have received much scholarly study this book focuses on the common ground they share and how their processes motivations and evolution may be more similar than we think These media are all regarded as unique genres of digital fiction and this book aims to bridge the gap between them Understanding these phenomena as expressions of the same principles could be crucial to understanding the future of narrative storytelling Microcomputer Market Place, 1987 Game Face, 2007 Answer Key for Bank Reconciliation Projects Robert J.
