Design Through Dialogue A Guide For Architects And Clients:

Design through Dialogue Karen A. Franck, Teresa von Sommaruga Howard, 2010-02-15 Completed projects receive more public attention than the process of their creation and so the myth that architects design buildings alone lives on. In fact architects work with a great many others and the relationships that develop particularly with clients have a significant impact on design. Design through Dialogue explores the relationship between client and architect through the lens of four overlapping activities that occur during any project: talking, exploring, and transforming. Cases of design and collaboration range from smaller scale retail, residential, and educational projects in the US, Sweden, the UK, and the Pacific Rim to large institutions including Seattle's Central Library, the National Museum of the American Indian in Washington DC, the Supreme Court in Jerusalem, and the Museum of New Zealand. Material is taken from interviews with clients and architects and research in psychotherapy, group dynamics, and design studies. Throughout the book, aspects of process are linked to design outcomes to illustrate how architects and clients collaborate creatively.

Design Through Dialogue

Karen A. Franck, Teresa Von Sommaruga Howard, 2010 Making Places for People Christie Johnson Coffin, Jenny Young, 2017-02-10 Honorable Mention at the 2019 ERDA Great Places Awards. Making Places for People explores twelve social questions in environmental design. Authors Christie Johnson Coffin and Jenny Young bring perspectives from practice and teaching to challenge assumptions about how places meet human needs. The book reveals deeper complexities in addressing basic questions such as: What is the story of this place? What logic orders it? How big is it? How sustainable is it? Providing an overview of a growing body of knowledge about people and places, Making Places for People stimulates curiosity and further discussion. The authors argue that critical understanding of the relationships between people and their built environments can inspire designs that better contribute to health, human performance, and social equity, bringing meaning and delight to people's lives.

Fabricate 2024 Bob Sheil, Marilena Skavara, Mette Ramsgaard Thomsen, Phil Ayres, 2024-04-04 Fabricate 2024: Creating Resourceful Futures is the fifth volume in the series of Fabricate publications. The first conference, Making Digital Architecture, explored the ways in which technology, design, and industry are shaping the world around us. Since then, we have become finely attuned to the negative impacts of this shaping. The 2024 conference, hosted in Copenhagen, sets focus on the pressing need to develop new models for architectural production that rethink how resource is deployed, its intensity, its socio-ecological origins, and sensitivity to environment. This book features the work of designers, engineers, and makers operating within the built environment. It documents disruptive approaches that reconsider how fabrication can be leveraged to address our collective and entangled challenges of resource scarcity, climate emergency, and burgeoning demand. Exploring case studies of completed buildings and works in progress, together with interviews with leading thinkers, this edition of Fabricate offers a plurality of tangible models for design and production that set a creative and responsible course towards resourceful futures.

The Collaborators: Interactions in the Architectural Design Process

Gilbert Herbert, Mark Donchin, 2016-03-23 Illustrated by critical analyses of significant buildings including examples by such eminent architects as Adler and Sullivan, Erich Mendelsohn and Louis Kahn. This book examines collaboration in the architectural design process over a period ranging from the mid 19th century to the late 1960s. The examples chosen are located in England, the United States, Israel and South Africa, and are of international scope. They have intrinsic interest as works of architecture and illustrate all facets of collaboration involving architects, engineers and clients. Prior to dealing with the case studies, the theoretical framework is set in three introductory essays which discuss in general terms the organizational implications of partnerships, associations and teams, the nature of interactions between architect and engineer and cooperation and confrontation in the relationship between architect and client. From this original standpoint, the interactive role of the designers is examined and reinterprets such well known buildings as the Chicago Auditorium and the Kimbell Art Museum. The re-evaluation of St Pancras Station and its hotel questions common presumptions about the separation of professional roles played by its engineer and architect. The account of the troubled history of Mendelsohn's project for the first Haifa Power House highlights the difficulties that arise when a determined and eminent architect confronts a powerful and demanding client. In a later era, the examination of the John Moffat Building which is less well known but deserving of wider recognition reveals how the fruitful collaboration of multiple architects can result in a successful unified design. These case studies comprise a wide range of programmes, challenges, personalities and interactions. Ultimately, in five different ways, in five different epochs and in five different circumstantial and cultural contexts, this book shows how the dialogue between the players in the design process resonates up to
