1998, 1999, 2000, and 2001. The results show that the number of people who are employed in the private sector has increased significantly over the period 1998-2001. This is consistent with the hypothesis that the private sector is growing faster than the public sector. The results also show that the number of people who are employed in the public sector has decreased significantly over the period 1998-2001. This is consistent with the hypothesis that the public sector is shrinking. The results also show that the number of people who are employed in the non-profit sector has increased significantly over the period 1998-2001. This is consistent with the hypothesis that the non-profit sector is growing faster than the public sector.

THE 100TH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CLIMATE ENGINEERS, held at the Sheraton Hotel, New York City, December 1-4, 1990, was a significant event in the history of the Society. The meeting was attended by over 1000 members and guests from around the world. The program included a variety of sessions, including technical sessions, plenary sessions, and social events. The technical sessions were held in the main ballroom of the hotel, and featured presentations on a wide range of topics related to climate engineering. The plenary sessions were held in the same ballroom, and featured presentations by leading experts in the field. The social events were held in the hotel's restaurants and bars, and provided an opportunity for members and guests to relax and socialize. The meeting was a great success, and it was a pleasure to host it at the Sheraton Hotel. We look forward to the next annual meeting, which will be held in 1991.

Fig. 10. Scatter plot of \log_{10} T_m vs. \log_{10} T_b . The regression line is shown. The correlation coefficient is 0.98. The equation of the line is $\log_{10} T_m = 1.07 \log_{10} T_b + 0.06$.

Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were 40 sedentary, middle-aged women who were randomly assigned to either a supervised walking program or a control group. The walking program consisted of 12 weeks of supervised walking, 3 times per week, for 30 minutes per session. The control group consisted of 20 women who did not participate in the walking program. The subjects were assessed at baseline and at 12 weeks. The walking program had a significant positive effect on the physical and psychological health of the subjects. The walking program significantly improved the subjects' physical health, as measured by the 6-minute walk test, and their psychological health, as measured by the Beck Depression Inventory and the State-Trait Anxiety Inventory. The walking program also had a significant positive effect on the subjects' quality of life, as measured by the SF-36. The walking program was well tolerated and had no adverse effects. The results of this study suggest that a supervised walking program can be an effective intervention for improving the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women.
