Wang,James P. Daubert,Luigi Padeletti,2018-03-20 A complete how to do it guide to planning programming implementing and trouble shooting todays pacemakers and other implantable cardiac devices Edited by a team of leading clinician educators this is a practical go to reference for trainees and clinical staff who are new to or less experienced with the programming and management of implantable devices It distills device best practices into a single quick reference volume that focuses on essential tasks common pitfalls and likely complications Each chapter follows a hands on how to do it approach that helps readers quickly master even the most challenging device related taskssuch as programming and how to respond confidently when complications arise Todays pacemakers and other implantable EP devices are to earlier versions what smart phones are to rotary phones. They are not only smaller and more comfortable; they offer complex programming options that allow clinicians to adapt a device to individual patient requirements. As they continue to become smaller, smarter, and more adaptable, these devices also become more challenging for clinicians to set up, manage, and monitor. This unique, quick reference guide dramatically reduces the learning curve for mastering this essential technology by giving doctors and technicians the how-to information they need. Focuses on tasks clinicians perform including pre-implementation, planning, programming, management, troubleshooting, and more. Shows how expert clinicians achieve optimal outcomes in their own labs with real-world examples. Features more than 300 images including ECGs, X-ray, and fluoroscopy images from device interrogation, intracardiac electrograms, and color electroanatomical maps. Provides eight videos on an accompanying website demonstrating key tasks and techniques. Also available in an eBook version enhanced with instructional videos. How to Manual for Pacemaker and ICD Devices is an indispensable tool of the trade for electrophysiologists, fellows in electrophysiology, EP nurses, technical staff, and industry professionals. Processing Times And Usability Of Manual Defibrillators Maria Gu00f6ttler, 2017

Background: Manual defibrillators underwent a rapid technical progress. The accurate use of a manual defibrillator can prevent a delay in starting CPR and reduce interruptions of chest compressions. In order to obtain an objective evaluation of a device's usability, eye-tracking measurements have recently become a promising method. Eye tracking can expose cognitive processes and visual attention during problem-solving tasks, which is an important part of understanding human reasoning. It was the aim of this study to evaluate the usability of modern manual defibrillators from 4 different manufacturers. We requested a series of tasks representing typical operator-device interactions during a cardiac arrest scenario. Successful task execution and processing times were measured. Additionally, while the operators were performing the tasks, their visual focuses were assessed via mobile eye tracking. Thereafter, their subjective perception of usability was evaluated by a standardized usability questionnaire. The hypothesis of our study was that the usability of manual defibrillators differs between the devices according to the requested task. Methods: After informed consent (ERB of the University of Freiburg), 43 voluntary operators were asked to execute 15 tasks representing typical operating steps during acute defibrillation, cardioversion, or pace-maker stimulation (see Y-axis Figure 2) at 4 different defibrillators: Lifepak™ 20 (Physio-Control Inc, USA), Defigard Touch 7™ (Schiller, Switzerland), Corpuls 3™ (GS, Germany), and X Series™ (ALS, Zoll, Chelmsford, USA) (Fig. 1). Operators were naïve to the included devices. The operators' 2019 gazes were measured via an eye-tracking device (Tobii Pro Glasses 2, Tobii AB, Sweden). From these data, task's 2019 processing time (TD) and the operator's 2019 gaze distribution (Heat Map) were analysed. After having executed the task, the operators 2019 evaluated the usability via a standardized questionnaire. The primary endpoint was TD. Secondary endpoints included gaze distribution and usability score.

8 - Manual Or Automatic Defibrillators for the In-hospital Setting: Suggested Choice Criteria Gerrit Jan Noordergraaf, 2017 Introduction Hospitals are bound to provide a safe environment Early defibrillation is a key factor in this respect Outside in hospital high risk areas the use of defibrillators is infrequent However even when rapid response teams RRT bring their own equipment the benefit from early shocks strongly suggest their immediate availability Currently there are no guidelines as to choice placement strategies or types level of defibrillators for in hospital settings despite investment costs Purpose Development of rational criteria for type and placement of defibrillators for in hospital settings Methods Literature research concerning the deployment of defibrillators in hospitals We selected all hospitals and manufacturers in the Netherlands using a standardized questionnaire enquired as to their defibrillator investment and placement strategies Using the literature and level of competence legislation we merged this into criteria for type and placement Results We were unable to find validated arguments supporting type placement of defibrillator AED vs manual with a wide range of devices to patient ratios Guidelines support deployment of a defibrillator anywhere in the hospital within 3 minutes All respondents noted low incidence of use coupled with a low sensitivity to costs We found that nurses prefer AEDs over manual defibrillators with an AED function Rational choice criteria were a population in vs out of hospital b potential for collapse c user competence d arrival time RRT e time to retrieve f positioning same level within reasonable distance visibility g combination with everything needed crash cart Conclusions A wide range of variation in placement strategies and type of defibrillators for the in hospital setting in the Netherlands Cost effective placement of defibrillators support use of AEDs over manual defibrillators in RRT based systems even though they may have negative effects Potential users influence type placement strategies Some rational criteria allow for suitable and safe strategies
