1. ~~Business leaders believe that the long-term goal of our economy is to move away from fossil fuels. This means a transition from the "fossil fuel economy" to other forms of energy generation that are sustainable and that do not pollute.~~

2. ~~Renewable energy, such as wind and solar, is becoming more popular because it is cleaner and more sustainable. It is also becoming more cost-effective, which makes it a better choice for many people.~~

3. ~~There are three main reasons why people support renewable energy: 1) it is better for the environment, 2) it is more sustainable, and 3) it is more cost-effective.~~

4. ~~Renewable energy is better for the environment because it does not pollute. It also helps to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, which are causing climate change. Renewable energy is more sustainable because it is a renewable resource, meaning it will never run out. Renewable energy is also more cost-effective because it is cheaper than fossil fuels in the long run.~~

"I Will Walk Among You" G. Geoffrey Harper, 2018-11-19 The well known parallels between Genesis and Leviticus invite further reflection particularly in regard to the rhetorical and theological purpose of their lexical syntactical and conceptual correspondences. This volume investigates the possibility that the final form text of Leviticus is an indirect reference to Genesis 1-3 and examines the rhetorical significance of such an allusion. The face of Pentateuch scholarship has shifted dramatically in the last forty years resulting in the questioning of many received truths and the employment of a host of new renewed and often competing methodologies by biblical scholars. This study sits at the intersection of these recent interpretive trends. G. Geoffrey Harper uses insights from the fields of intertextuality, rhetorical criticism, and speech act theory to create a methodological framework which he applies to three Leviticus pericopes. Chapters 11, 16, and 26 are examined in turn and for each the assessment of potential parallels at lexical syntactical and conceptual levels reveals a complex web of interconnected allusion to the creation and Eden narratives of Genesis 1 and 2-3. Moreover, Harper probes the theological and rhetorical import of these intertextual connections and explores how Leviticus ought to be understood in its Pentateuchal context. This comprehensive study of the connections between these two sections of the Hebrew Bible sheds light on both the literary artistry of these ancient texts and the persuasive purposes that lie behind their composition.

Urban Sediment Removal Robert Brinkmann, Graham A. Tobin, 2012-12-06 There is not an extensive literature on street sweeping. Much of the research that has been completed exists in the gray area of technical reports and government documents. Furthermore, a great deal of this research is locally based and has not been widely published. Indeed, our review of the scientific literature revealed that while storm water quality has received a lot of attention, few academicians have been involved in street sweeping research per se. Thus, throughout our research into street sweeping effectiveness, sweeping protocols, and sweeping practices, we wished that there had been a book summarizing some of the important issues associated with street sweeping. As our frustration grew, we realized that we were uniquely poised to write such a book as our research had encompassed a variety of different projects including sweeper testing, waste management, and related storm water quality. Also, early on in this exercise, we recognized that there was a growing demand for information about street sweeping policies and management, especially for studies focusing on the effectiveness of different sweeping schedules, on waste management operations, and on non point pollution reduction practices associated with storm water runoff. It was abundantly clear that there was a profound lack of research on street sweeping that could assist with developing local, regional, or national policies. There was, in effect, little guidance for city managers on these issues. A Modest Proposal in the Context of Swift's Irish Tracts Maria-Angeles Ruiz Moneva, 2020-06-12 Swift's A Modest Proposal has always aroused the interest not just of literary critics but also of linguists and pragmatists. Within the latter approaches, the study of irony and more concretely the intentions and attitudes that must have guided the production of such an intricate work have always been paramount However it seems that within pragmatics the analysis has been restricted so far to the 1729 work itself In the present author s view it is interesting to contextualise this masterpiece of irony and satire within Swift s wider writing on Ireland an approach that remains to be carried out Accordingly this work sets out to analyse a selection of Swift s Irish Tracts with a view to tracing the evolution within Swift s literary production of his views and attitudes towards the situation of his homeland Although different pragmatic approaches are applied the emphasis is laid upon the contributions that the relevance theoretical framework and its studies on irony may bring to the understanding of this particular Tract The works selected are meant to cover and also be representative of the main phases currently distinguished within Swift s writing on the Irish Question It is therefore hoped that a deeper analysis of the former works by Swift on this topic will provide new insights for a better understanding of A Modest Proposal The Curse of the Law and the Crisis in Galatia Todd A.

Wilson,2018-09-12 Todd Wilson assesses Paul s references to the Law in the so called ethical section of Galatians in light of a fresh appraisal of the Galatian crisis He contributes to the continuing debate over the relevance of this section of the letter for the rest of Galatians and for the situation in Galatia A Seventeenth Century News Letter ,1949
