Lead/ Hook	There is a strong lead/hook that grabs the reader's attention towards the writer's topic that remains both general to most topics.	There is a lead/hook that grabs the reader's attention towards the writer's topic, but it's either too general or too specific.	There is an attempt at a lead/hook, but it does not grab the reader's attention.	There is no lead/hook. The writer gets right to the thesis statement.
Thesis Statement	The thesis statement clearly lets readers know that the main character experiences a change throughout the novel and lets them adjust on to describe the character changes that will later be developed in the body paragraphs, and did not include any supporting details yet.	The thesis statement clearly lets readers know that the main character experiences a change throughout the novel and lets them adjust on to describe the character changes that will be developed in the three body paragraphs, but included some supporting details.	The thesis statement either lets readers know that the main character experiences a change throughout the novel or lets them adjust on to describe the character changes that will later be developed in the three body paragraphs, but does not include both.	There is no thesis statement letting the readers know that the main character experiences a change throughout the novel or there adjust on to describe the character changes that will later be developed in the body paragraphs.
Evidence	There are three reasons, one per body paragraph, to support the claim/thesis statement. The three reasons were related and did not overlap and say the same thing. The writer included supporting details such as quotations to convince the reader of each character changes.	There are three reasons, one per body paragraph, to support the claim/thesis statement. The three reasons were related, but overlapped and were making similar points. The writer attempted to include some supporting details such as quotations. However, it was not strong enough to convince the reader of each character changes or there were not too much supporting details and not enough of the writer's own thoughts.	There are three reasons (or less) to support the claim/thesis statement, but they are mixed in throughout the three body paragraphs, vague, unrelated, and/or making the same points. The writer attempted to include some evidence such as quotations, but it was inaccurate and/or unrelated and did not convince the reader of each character changes.	There are three reasons (or less) to support the writer's opinion, but they are vague, unrelated, and making the same points. The writer did not attempt to include any evidence.
Craft/ Word Choice	The writer made purposeful word choice by using grade-level vocabulary and transition phrases to have an effect on readers throughout the entire essay and all were used correctly.	The writer attempted to make purposeful word choices using grade-level vocabulary and transition phrases to have an effect on readers throughout most of the essay and/or some were used incorrectly.	The writer attempted to make purposeful word choices using grade-level vocabulary and/or transition phrases to have an effect on readers, but not throughout most of the essay and/or some were used incorrectly.	The writer did not attempt to make purposeful word choices using grade-level vocabulary and/or transition phrases to have an effect on readers throughout any of the essay.
Ending	There is a strong conclusion that leaves the reader understanding that the main character changed throughout the novel, restates the three adjectives to describe the character changes, did not introduce new details, and provided a final statement about character change.	There is a conclusion that leaves the reader understanding that the main character changed throughout the novel and did not introduce new details. The writer stated the three adjectives to describe the character changes in the same way as the introduction and/or did not attempt to provide a final statement about character change.	There is a conclusion that attempts to leave the reader understanding that the main character changed throughout the novel, but it is missing either the three restated adjectives to describe the character changes, introduced new details, and/or did not attempt to provide a final statement about character change.	There is no conclusion that attempted to leave the reader understanding that the main character changed throughout the novel, restated adjectives to describe the character changes, and/or final statement about character change.

Educational Psychology Robert E. Slavin, 1997. This edition continues to have in-depth practical coverage with a focus on the intentional teacher. It presents up-to-the-minute research that a reflective intentional teacher can apply. The eighth edition of this popular text from renowned educational psychologist Robert Slavin translates theory into practices that teachers can use in their classrooms and focuses on the concept of intentionality. An intentional teacher according to Slavin is one who constantly reflects on his or her practice and makes instructional decisions based on a clear conception of how these practices affect students. To help readers become intentional teachers, the author models best practices through classroom examples and offers questions to guide the reader. Book jacket.

Teaching Narrative Writing Lola M. Schaefer, 2001. Students can write organized compelling fiction and nonfiction narrative when they have the right tools. Performance Literacy Through Storytelling Nile Stanley, Brett Dillingham, 2009. Make storytelling a part of your daily curriculum. This practical guide from Nile Stanley and Brett Dillingham shows busy K-8 teachers how to use storytelling to motivate and engage all readers and writers while supporting the standards. Mini lessons at beginning, intermediate, and advanced levels help teachers weave storytelling into the fabric of today's standards-based classroom and construct their own skillful literacy lessons. Reluctant and striving readers and writers, English language learners, and even more advanced storytellers will love the confidence they gain as they move from developing to delivering a variety of stories for a variety of audiences. Teachers will love the many benefits of performance literacy or teaching children how to write and perform stories. Develop literacy skills: language, vocabulary, comprehension, writing process, speaking, and listening along with performance skills and self-expression. Easily integrate learning across the content areas. Deepen the connection between home, school, and community. Promote students' creativity and activate their prior knowledge. Encourage respect and self-improvement as students learn to critique each other's stories and performances in a non-threatening manner. Developing Literacy Through Storytelling comes complete with a story index, curriculum tie-ins, digital storytelling tips, and information for using the companion website with
